Wong Lee and His Caucasian Spouse.

A Boy Run Over and Seriously and Strangely Injured.

Shell-Game Robbers at Santa Monica Make a Big Haul.

Whooping It Up for the Fourth—Another Wild Crazy—Convicted of Assisting in a Jail-Break—A Salvation Army Battle, Etc.

THE TIMES on Tuesday announced the arrival of Mrs. Wong Lee, née Miss Sarah Burke, in this city. About three years ago Miss Burke was one of Santa Cruz's fascinating belles. She was well-connected and moved in the best society of that favorite seaside resort. She had a host of friends, both in Santa Cruz and San Francisco, and she boasted of having more admirers at her feet than any of the fair nymphs who sported in the surf of the Long Branch of the West. She was the only daughter of a wealthy family who live on the nob hill of Santa Cruz, and the young lady never had to ask twice for anything that money could buy. She had servants and fine clothes to her heart's content, and to all outward appearances she was the happiest girl in the city. All of a sudden, without any apparent cause, she became a changed girl. Her loving and indulgent parents noticed that she was becoming more and more morose, but to save their lives they could not discover the reason for this sudden change. As is usually the case in such affairs, it remained for an outsider to discover the young girl's troubles. A frisky San Francisco reporter happened to be in Santa Cruz on the lookout for pleasure and sensations for his paper, and he was the first one to size Miss Sarah's case up to a nicety. He learned that she was very ambitious to make herself famous in some way. He found that she had a Mongolian lover, in the person of Wong Lee, who not only possessed good looks, but was highly educated in both English and his own language. He was possessed of some means, and numerous presents from the almond-eyed lover found their way to the Burke mansion. It is supposed that Miss Burke first attracted his attention on the beach, but their first meeting-place still remains a mystery. At any rate it is very certain that after the ice was once broken Lee proved to be a very ardent lover, and the two young people met often under the trees that shade the walks around her father's house. The San Francisco reporter thought he had discovered another "Tubbs Hotel scandal," and one morning the good people woke up with a seven-days' wonder on their hands, but they didn't hold it long, for on that very day Lee and his white sweetheart lit out for San Francisco, and in less than forty-eight hours after the reporter's first article on Mongolian love in Santa Cruz appeared, the bon-ton society of the metropolis of the Northern Citrus Belt was thrown into a state of mental excitement that came near knocking its mushroom growth into a cocked hat. As soon as the eloping party arrived in San Francisco, Lee sought a divine who looks after the souls of a fashionable congregation, and a license was procured. It was not settled then whether a white woman could marry a Chinaman or not, but, after a good deal of trouble, the affair was arranged, and before Papa Burke arrived in the city his adored daughter was married to Mr. Lee as tight as the laws of the wild West could bind her, and the old man had to acknowledge that he was beaten by a "heathen Chinee." The newspapers ripped and snorted, because it was fashionable to abuse anything Chinese, at that time, and the Society for the Prevention of Vice got right up on its hind legs and swore in seven different languages that Miss Burke should return to the bosom of her Santa Cruz family. Column after column filled the papers, and even the ministers called their flocks together and preached about the depravity of the youth of the present age. During this social storm the newly-made Mrs. Lee and her foreign husband quietly passed their honeymoon in a little Chinese lodging-house on California street. She was visited by hundreds of fat old ladies who were full of advice and lecture material, but Mrs. Lee was satisfied to remain with her adopted people, and the old ladies' well-meant words went in one ear and out the other. Finally the matter died out, and Mrs. Lee and her Chinese husband were not heard of until THE TIMES's San Francisco correspondent telegraphed that the strangely-mated pair had started for the sunny clime of Southern California. Mrs. Lee and her husband arrived in this city day before yesterday, and were at once driven to Dr. Waugh's, on Upper Main street. The doctor is a relative of Mrs. Lee's husband, and the new kinfolks seem to be very fond of Mrs. Lee already. She is still quite pretty, and is very happy, according to her own statement, and she looks as if she was telling the truth. For some time her parents thought she would tire of her strange husband, but she says she is more fond of him now than ever, and is not at all sorry that she married him. They have not yet made up their minds to go into business here, but she likes the looks of the place very much, and thinks they will make it their home. Mrs. Lee keeps up with the American fashions, although she has a full wardrobe of Chinese clothes. She and her husband spent the day yesterday in riding and walking about the city, and attracted a good deal of attention.

AN UNLUCKY ESCAPE.

It Brings John McGibney to Grief and Prison.

The people of Pomona are peaceful citizens, and have provided a "cooler" for the benefit of those who fear not the terrors of the law. Into this the officers chuck the offenders, and leave them time for meditation over the error of their devious ways. On the 3d of last month this bastile contained an occupant who was not without sympathizers in the outside world. Among them was one McGibney, who heroically determined to rescue the imprisoned man. He accordingly, in broad daylight, went to a wagon, took out one of its standards, and approaching the local fortress smashed the padlock, and invited the prisoner to breathe again the air of freedom. The invitation was accepted, and the two, with A. H. Hazelcus, took themselves gaily away. But their joy was of short duration, for they were soon run down, and yesterday McGibney stood trial in Judge Cheney's court for assisting a prisoner to escape, and a jury found him guilty as charged. An information against Hazelcus was dismissed for want of sufficient evidence to convict. McGibney will probably spend some time in the penitentiary.

A BAD ACCIDENT.

A Little Boy Run Over and Seriously Hurt.

About 11 o'clock yesterday morning a large cook-wagon, such as is used by threshing outfits, was going down Seventh street toward the river. A little son of Mrs. Scofield, boarding at 345 Flower, was playing on the street. The lad, who is about 8 years old, ran after the wagon for a ride, and in some way fell and the heavy wagon passed over his arm. His screams attracted the attention of Col. Dunkleberger, who hastened to the spot and with the aid of some others carried the little fellow in the house and sent for Dr. J. S. Owens. When the physician arrived and examined the boy he found him seriously, though not necessarily dangerously hurt. In some unaccountable way the wheel had passed along the child's right arm and torn off the flesh and muscles from the shoulder to the elbow, leaving a gaping wound of that length and over two inches wide, laying bare the bone and arteries of the arm. A long needle was used, the wound dressed and sewed up and the patient made as comfortable as possible. In the ordinary course of nature the wound will heal in time without serious results, but the escape of losing an arm was a narrow one.

The vandals who were driving the wagon did not stop, but hurried away, so that up to this time the police have been unable to find them. The mother of the boy is a poor widow woman working in some shop down town, and Col. Dunkleberger is circulating a subscription paper for the unfortunate little fellow. At the police station he obtained a number of dollars from the officers after telling the story of the accident.

THE FOURTH.

The Trades Unions to Turn Out—Much Fireworks.

The Fourth of July idea is "catching on" in good shape this year. The canvassing committee has already secured about $1500 for the occasion, and more will be forthcoming.

It is probable that nearly all the trades unions in the city will turn out, and they can make a tremendous showing if they try. The carpenters will turn out with probably 500 men, as the union is over 700 strong here. The Carpenters' unions of Pasadena, Monrovia and Santa Ana will join them. The sheet-metal workers will probably muster 300 men. The Plumbers', Painters' and Hodcarriers' unions also propose to turn out. It is intended to have each union carry some emblem of its trade. The carpenters, for instance, will carry their steel squares, wreathed in red, white or blue ribbons. The idea is a very pretty one, and if carried out will add greatly to the procession.

The fireworks display from the hill will be very elaborate, and will include the favorite Japanese day-fireworks.

ORATOR AND POET.

Hon. R. F. del Valle and Hon. H. T. Hazard, who are managing the Fourth of July celebration, have selected Hon. Calvin Edgerton as orator of the day and L. E. Mosher as poet. They are confident that Los Angeles will see the biggest Fourth of July celebration ever witnessed in Southern California.

POSSESSED OF THE DEVIL.

Another Crazy Patient at the County Hospital.

The County Hospital is in trouble again, and the maimed inmates are in a greater state of excitement than they were when the burly negro skipped out in his red-flannel shirt-tails. The old German woman who was an inmate of the City Jail a short time ago and was sent to the County Hospital for medical treatment, has been carrying on at a great rate and will be examined by the Commission of Insanity today. She first showed signs of insanity a few days ago and since that time she has led the attendants of the hospital a merry chase. There was nothing too devilish for the old woman to do. It seemed that the combined cussedness of two dozen college boys had centered into her rattling old bones, and as soon as nightfall came on she would turn herself loose, and one wild prank would follow another in quick succession until morning. Some of the superstitious inmates of the institution firm

ENGLAND AND INDIA.

PRINCE DULEEP SINGH AND THE DANGERS OF REVOLUTION.

Who the Prince Is—The Story of His Marriage—England's Immense Colonial Empire—What She Gets from India. How She Rules It—Indian Education.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, June 8.

I see that Prince Duleep Singh, of India, is endeavoring to create a revolution among the Indian princes against the British government. This prince comes of one of the oldest of the royal families of India, and one of his ancestors, who died in 1839, left an empire, comprising 20,000,000 inhabitants and an army of 70,000 men. This was Rungeet Singh, one of the most remarkable men of Indian history. Duleep Singh is short, dark, and Asiatic in feature. He is a Christian, and he is one of the great products of the missionary work of India. He has lived for a long time in England, and he has a pension, I think, of £40,000 or $200,000 a year from the English government. This is a sort of a bribe to keep him quiet, but he has, I am told, much of his ancestor's ability, and it is said that England regards him as an extremely dangerous character. An interview was published with him in one of the magazines about ten years ago, in which he said that he foresaw the time when the island of Great Britain would be the insignificant appendage of a gigantic Anglo-Indian empire. He was talking to an Englishman. He said: "The Normans conquered you, and you absorbed them; you conquered us and we shall absorb you." At this time Singh thought that the government of England would be eventually administered from Delhi, and that the Russians would not attempt to seize India. He has evidently changed his mind at present, and is now plotting with Russia to overthrow the British government.

***

Duleep Singh has an Egyptian wife, and I was told by one of the missionaries in Cairo the story of his courtship. It was a number of years ago that he stopped at Cairo while on his way to India, and during this time he visited the mission schools there. He was much pleased with the looks of one of the girls whom he saw, and it was through the missionaries that he became acquainted with her. He said that he wanted a wife of his own color and he proposed to marry her and take her back to England with him. The maiden and her parents consented and the prince left Cairo, saying he would call on his way back for his wife. My memory is not certain, but I think his mother came with him on his return. The marriage took place and the Egyptian maiden became the wife of the Indian prince. Singh gave a nice little annual allowance to the mission school and he kept this up, I think, until a few years ago, when for some reason or other he dropped it.

***

This revolution of Singh's may, if carried out, deprive the English government of India, and India is one of the largest pearls in her colonial crown. In his interview which I have referred to Singh spoke of the impossibility of a small island continuing to wield throughout the ages such a colonial empire as England does, and in this he voiced forth the sentiments of a great many thinkers of the world today. I visited the Colonial exhibition at London last year, and it seemed as though the world was paying tribute to Great Britain. There were rooms after rooms of manufactures and all the products of the world were on show. In one hall were figures representing the different races and peoples under English rule in their various costumes, and these represented nearly every race on the face of the globe. In India alone England rules five times as many people as there are in the United States, and these speak eighty-seven different languages. The population of India is 250,000,000, and there are only 200,000 English speaking people among them. With more than 1,000 natives to one Englishman, England will not fare well during a revolution.

***

From a late English authority I get some striking figures of the extent of the British empire. The colonial possessions of England are seventy times the size of the mother country, and they cover in area 8,000,000 of square miles, or nearly three times the size of the territory of the United States. The population of these countries thus governed is over 300,000,000, five times as many people as we have, and nearly nine times that of Great Britain. The tail cannot always wag the dog, and this big colonial dog will some time shake off its British tail.

This colonial population has been increasing very rapidly during the last twenty-five years both in number and in wealth, and it is largely due to it that England holds its own as the leading business nation of the globe. The population of the English colonies has doubled since 1860, and the commerce with them has risen from less than $1,000,000,000 to nearly $2,000,000,000. The revenue from them has more than doubled, rising from $250,000,000 to $500,000,000, and the largest advance in this regard has been in India. In this country alone the population has increased 71,000,000 in twenty-five years, or, in other words, India has added to its population in this time more people than are inhabitants of the United States to-day. The colonial possessions of England are by many times as large as those of the colonies of all the other nations of the world, and Portugal, Holland, France and Spain come next as colonizing countries.

***

England of course gets the bulk of the trade of her colonies, and though she is further away than many of the other countries of Europe and Africa, she gets about half of the whole exports of India. Her share of these exports amounts to about $150,000,000 a year, and in 1883 England sent over $200,000,000 of English goods into India. The most important thing, however, is the food supplies which England gets from her colonies, though she is now also buying a great deal of her raw materials for her manufactories from them. India furnishes England with cotton, coffee, jute, hides and skins, opium, tea, grain, indigo and raw wool, and India could give England enough of these materials to keep her factories going for ages. She gets also breadstuffs from India, and she is now bringing in a great deal of her meat from Australia. While I was in London they were selling mutton there for five cents a pound, and this was a part of a ship load of 60,000 frozen sheep which had been brought from Australia. In case of war with the United States the cotton, bread and meat supplies would be a very important item, and the colonies would supply the place of those which now come to her from America.

***

England rules India in a different way than she does the other colonies. Here the cannon ball and the bullet take the place of the ballot box and self government. The executive authority is vested in a governor general, who gets $100,000 a year as a salary and $48,000 more in perquisites. The Earl of Dufferin, who was governor general of Canada about eight years ago, is now at the head of the Indian government. He has a council of six members under him, and there is a secretary of state for India at London who attends to the business of the Indian government in England and has control of all matters relating to it. The governor general is supreme in India, but the different provinces have subordinate governors and a number of these are governed by native princes. England limits, however, the military force which they can hold and does not allow them to send ambassadors from one country to the other. The English army in India is more than twice as large as that of the United States and it consists of about 63,000 men. It has, in addition to this, a native army of 134,000 men, but in case of war it would not be surprising if these went over to the natives or by their treachery did the government more harm than good. It costs $100,000,000 a year to maintain this English army in India, and this, of course, comes out of the natives. It is not much wonder that they decidedly abhor and that they would, if possible, throw off the yoke of the British government. Their own armies, which are independent of the native army above spoken of, outnumber the English forces by many hundreds of thousands. The Hindoo states alone have 275,000 men and the Mohammedan states 74,000 men. These immense armies are composed of infantry, cavalry and artillery and they are well supplied with guns.

***

The Indians have shown themselves to be good soldiers in the past. They are noted as thinkers and philosophers, and they are a far different class of people than we Americans generally suppose. As to their religion, there are only a little more than 1,000,000 Christians among them, and more than one-half of these are Roman Catholics. There are fifty Mohammedans for every Christian, and the Hindoos in India alone number more than the entire population of Great Britain and the United States. The Buddhists are to the Christians as three to one. The density of population is very great, and this becomes denser with the increase which is now going on. In an area of a little over 1,000,000 square miles, or just about one-third the size of the United States, there are about 254,000,000 people, and there are, by a large number, more men than women in India. As to cities, there are many large ones which we never hear of. Both Calcutta and Bombay are bigger than Chicago, and Madras is greater than St. Louis in size. Hyberadab has 354,000 people, and Lucknow is bigger than Washington. There are sixty towns in India which have over 50,000 inhabitants to thirty-five of more than that size in the United States.

***

As to education, though it is said to be making great progress, there are more than 200,000,000 of the people of India who are unable to read and write, and the reign of England undoubtedly tends to improve the education of the country. The railways of India are said to be as good as any in the world, and there are now about 16,000 miles of road in operation. The roads are well patronized, and the fares are very low, second class being less than two cents and third class only one-half cent per mile. Even at this rate the Indians make their money off third class passengers, and the same is true of England, where the rates are nearly twice as high. One can travel over the greater part of India by rail, and a network of roads has been made and lined with trees. There are a number of canals which run throughout the country, and the English government, by its public works, has been doing a great deal for the country.

***

The climate of India is almost as varied as that of the United States. It has at its top, you know, the biggest mountains in the world—the Himalayas—and the peninsula of which it is composed is watered with magnificent rivers. This territory, which is just about half the size of the United States, is made up of plains, hills and rolling lands. It has immense plains, which are thoroughly irrigated, and its agricultural possibilities are as fine as those of any land in the world. It is a country which will make a splendid foundation for a grand empire, and were the Hindoos not the most disunited of any nation on the face of the globe, they would have long ago overthrown this power, whose representative citizens they outnumber by more than 1,000 to one.

New Bridge Over the Tay.

Newspaper readers will remember the terrible catastrophe by which, on the last day of 1879, the railway bridge over the river Tay, Scotland, was swept out of existence, together with a mail train from the north laden with passengers, and from which terrible catastrophe there was not a single survivor. It is not, perhaps, generally known that a relic of the ill fated train was found some months afterward in a most unlooked for locality—viz., on the coast of Norway, a door of a first class carriage bearing the initials of the railway company, and which has been fully authenticated by the British consul, being found by a fisherman. This object has thus taken the same course in drifting as the memorable Columbine with the woman Monat on board. The new bridge is the longest in the world, the viaduct being over two miles, and the height of the bridge seventy-seven feet. There are thirteen spans of 245 feet each; eighty-five piers, of which nine are brickwork and the rest cast iron cylinders. Four weeks ago the last span was most successfully floated into position, of which incident we give an illustration, and now only two spans remain to be raised. Two-thirds of the permanent way are now completed. As the work was commenced in June, 1883, the construction of the bridge has taken exactly four years, being somewhat under the time estimated.

FLOATING THE LAST SPAN.

Queen Victoria's Bedlinen.

A linen dealer in London has the royal order every year for ten new pairs of sheets at £25 a pair. The linen is of the most exquisitely fine cambric; in the center is the royal coat of arms, most beautifully embroidered, and the crown equally exquisitely done in the four corners. These sheets are for the staterooms, and are all manufactured near Belfast. Every day the queen's bed is freshly furnished with linen, and six housemaids perform the task. There are twelve pillows, on which the linen cases are sewn, not buttoned or tied, and these also are changed every day.—Galway Times.

160 acres in San Bernardino county, in Temescal Valley; independent water supply; 100 acres inclosed with rabbit-proof fence; in grapes, oranges, peaches, apricots, cherries and walnuts; 120 acres plow land; new house of four rooms and outbuildings. Price, $50 per acre, one-half cash, balance one year at 8 per cent. Eighty acres, unimproved, with separate water right, at $25 per acre, cash.

Eighty acres in the frostless foothill belt, at Cahuenga, twelve miles northwest of Los Angeles, nine miles north of Santa Monica, at the head of Cold Water Cañon. The altitude is 1200 feet above sea level, and free from frosts and heavy, cold fogs. About forty acres can be plowed; the balance can be planted with trees or vines. The soil is unequaled for fertility, as is proven by the luxuriant growth of corn, barley and vines. There are about ten acres of Muscat grapes in full bearing, now full of fruit. It is the best climate for persons with lung troubles in Southern California; is 400 feet higher than the Raymond Hotel and most other health resorts. It has one of the grandest views in Southern California, for a place that is easily accessible by carriage. Title perfect. Price, $5000.

6880 acres in Santa Inez Valley, Santa Barbara county; 1500 acres excellent, level land; soil rich, sandy loam; 2500 acres good vineyard land, sloping, fine pasture and timber land; the whole surrounded by living streams of water; springs all over the ranch; is fenced with a three-board and one-wire fence, posts eight feet apart; one-half of this land is good for olive-culture; upon the place are 800 bearing grape vines, twenty years old; 100 assorted fruit trees, thirty years old; three miles from railroad depot, two miles from postoffice. Price, $20 per acre.

TO CAPITALISTS.

The San Lorenzo, or Peach Tree Ranch, and adjoining lands, containing 35,000 acres, situated in Monterey county, is one of the finest stock ranges in the State. The land is capable of producing anything, the hills being particularly adapted to grapes. There is an abundance of water, besides a living stream the entire length of Peach Tree Valley, which is 15 miles long and from 1 to 1½ miles wide. Alfalfa will grow its whole length. The water priviliges control 200,000 acres of land. 2600 acres of this valley produced last year an average of 40 bushels of wheat to the acre. There is feed for 10,000 head of stock, besides an abundance of fine oaks, the acorns from which last year fattened 2500 head of hogs. 4700 head of cattle now on the place, all in marketable condition. 4000 tons of hay stacked. Purchase of each optional.

$75,000 has been spent on fencing. Five farmhouses on different parts of the property, with barns and corrals. There is a good wagon road of easy grade to San Lucas, on the S. P. R. R. 13 miles; good county road, almost level, to King City, on S. P. R. R. 20 miles. A colony could be formed and land sold for four times present price, which is $20 per acre.

2500 acres of good land northwest of Los Angeles, near Ventura county line. 700 or 800 acres is level, rich and arable, the balance low, rolling land, most of which is irrigable and tillable. There is a good water supply, consisting of several large springs, and the tract is bounded on one side by a large running stream, from which any amount of water can be obtained. There is some oak timber on the tract. Title, United States patent. Price, $25 per acre; $37,500 cash, and balance in one and two years at 10 per cent.

TO EXCHANGE:

For city or country property, an undivided half of a 173-acre ranch and a 120-acre townsite divided into 312 large lots, on the Missouri Pacific Railroad, in Jasper county, Southwestern Missouri, six miles from Carthage, the county seat; zinc mines abound in the vicinity; also an improved ranch near above, good fruit and grain land. Price, $50 per acre. This is a bargain for somebody.

I Want Bargains in Real Estate. If you have any to sell at bed-rock prices, bring it in and I will find you purchasers.

JEDGE WAXEM ABROAD.

HIS ARRIVAL IN LONDON, THE WORLD'S METROPOLIS.

A Letter Wherein Are Narrated the Experiences of the Jedge and Mandy on the Trip to the Big City Through Devonshire from the South of England.

[Special Correspondence.]

LONDON, May 28.

We got away from Penzance safe and went back to Plymouth to stay all night, so's we could come up to London in daylight and see the country.

Ther was one thing I noticed in Plymouth that I forgot to speak about, and that was a habit the mayors of the place has fell into, namely, to wit—the erection of various mercurial statutes in honor of their mayorality. For instance, one has built a big tower in an open place, in front of some public building, with a clock set up nigh the top of it, which he tends to at his own expense; another one has built a fancy gateway to the park, and named it after himself, and I reckon others was guilty of the same weaknesses, though they did not come under my immejiate eyesight. While we was discussing these evidences of the vanity of statesmen Mandy suppcised me by suggesting that I ought to do something of the sort in Wayback.

"Well, Mandy," I says to her, "if you will tell me how a congressman on $5,000 a year is going to pay $10,000 to get elected and keep himself and family on the balance, I'll try and squeeze out a monument fund."

She couldn't do it, of course, and that's one of the reasons I am forever ferninst women fooling with politics. They always figger on what an office pays, without thinking about what has to be paid to get hold of it.

We left Plymouth in the morning for London, taking second class tickets, because the first class hotel we had stopped at had run our treasury surplus down to a war basis, and, besides, second class is about as good as first class. These doggoned compartment cars are a nuisance any way they can be fixed up, and if it wasn't for the sake of time and Mandy I'd a long sight rather walk. If we had them in America they would be the cause of starting a new political party inside of sixty days. They ain't nothing but the English social system on wheels. The nobs ride first class, the middlings take second, and the masses go third. The masses in America dominate the ballot box, and a candidate that would dare to put on style and not go third class would be scooped on the first deal.

***

I was amused on our way up by a young American, who had the English so bad that it was breaking out all over him, and showing clean through his clothes. He was in our caboose, and there was also Sir Somebody, and they got to talking. I listened till I heard the baronet ask him if Mr. Arthur was president of the United States, and then I subsided and began to talk scenery to Mandy. I knowed the young fellow first rate and had talked on the subject of English aristocracy with him till I was posted on his weakness, and when the Sir left the cars I turned on him:

"Now," I says to him, "you are always talking about the education and superiority of these titled Englishmen; what do you think of this one, with a son married to an American, too, as he says, who don't even know who is the president of the United States, the greatest and the grandest republic on God's green earth?"

"That's nothing, whatever," he stated in reply, in a scorny tone of voice. "English gentlemen have something else to think about besides a country which they consider only a fourth class power, if tuey consider it at all. There are other things of much more importance to them."

"They didn't seem to think so in 1776 and in 1812," I says to him, biling hot; "but that's got nothing to do with this case. What I say is that an educated Englishman that don't know who the president of the United States is is the same kind of an Englishman that an American is an American who defends the Englishman's ignorance."

This kind of settled him, but I give him another when we got to London. There he pointed out a cab with a coat of arms on it and said it belonged, with hundreds more like it, to some duke or other.

"Does it?" I ast. "Well, will you tell me what's the difference between a duke that gits an income out of a back line and is a duke, and a livery stable keeper that does the same thing and ain't a duke?" That time he turned his back on me and refused to discuss social questions with a man who thought "social" and "sociability" meant the same thing.

***

The road from Plymouth to London runs through Devonshire, which is a much purtier county than Cornwall and has a great deal less stone fence than that hard deestrict. In fact, it looked to me like we was riding through Blue Grass Kentucky, only there was a smell of buttermilk pervadin' the atmosphere, instead of Bourbon, which most congressmen know more about.

In every field there was herds of fine cattle and sheep, and as far as I could see, there wasn't an acre of land that was not taken care of as tenderly as if it had been a baby. If the United States farms was run like these English farms we would raise enough farm products and garden truck to supply all the known world and have a surplus to ship off to the planets.

***

On the way a man pointed out to me the house of the late Lord Iddesleigh, a statesman after my own heart, and one that stood closster to the hearts of the people than any I have heard spoken of. The house is a very plain brick one, with the farm spread out around it, and lots of farmers in America have better ones. He wasn't a "castellated lord," and because he was a plain man, he was solid with the masses. I thought as my informant talked about the dead man till the tears almost filled his eyes, that if when I was gone the people talked so of me I wouldn't want no better monument.

***

We rushed along part of the time at fifty miles an hour, and while I don't like compartment cars, nor the ugly English engines, I do say that their railroads are built and run in the very best style of the art. They don't use cross ties, though they are coming to it, but they put their rails on a continuous line of sleepers, bolted together with cross pieces of wood, the rails bolted to the sleepers. It takes about twice along to lay a track this way and costs twice as much as our style, but it is as slick as soap after it is done, and a man can ride fast and not have his backbone jerked out, and his body frescoed with bruises as they do on some of our roads.

***

Along in the afternoon the open places between towns grew less, and we kind of felt we were getting near the great city. Mandy was very quiet, and I looked out at the houses thickening along the way. Going into a strange city always makes me feel kind of lonesome, and going into London, the biggest one in the world, where among all its 5,000,000 of beating hearts not one beat responsive to my own, and where of its 10,000,000 eyes not one would be brighter by my coming, made me feel as if I was a wanderer on the face of the earth, a man without a country. Mandy was the connecting link, though, and on her I depended, and we drawed closer together as we came into the station, where we was to make our first appearance in London. Like cutting a man's head off, it was soon over, and before we had time to realize we were in the city we were rattling off down town in a shilling cab with our baggage all right, though it wasn't checked, and we began to recover our spirits.

We found a lodging place without much trouble, and when we had got into our room Mandy looked out the window at the house across the street.

"Bash," says she to me, "if London is half as big as my hungry is we'll have to stay here a month to see it all."

Didn't I tell you, Mr. Editor, Mandy had no poetry in her soul? Well, I must stop now, and write some more of London when I see it.

Yours truly,

W. Q. WAXEM,
M. C. from Wayback.

UNHAPPY METROPOLITANS.

A Correspondent Who Tells the Cause of Their Lack of Joy.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, June 8.

The people of this city are not happy. Exceptions there are, of course, as some have such cheerful dispositions that nothing can long depress them, and others live in the suburbs where they unite the advantages of country and city; but still, taken as a mass, Gothamites do not enjoy life. As I walk about the crowded sections the proofs of unhappiness are too many and too plain to be mistaken. In one hour's walk along the Bowery I can see more strained and anxious faces, more fevered eyes and attenuated forms, than I would see in a lifetime in the rural west. There is, indeed, deep cause for anxiety, for I am satisfied that three-fourths of the men and women of this city never feel easy as to their future, never feel certain that to-morrow will as this day be, if not more abundant. And as to the small minority whose fortune is made, there are many forces working against their comfort.

It is easy to see why life in a great commercial city is not happy. Happiness consists in a rational exercise and development of all the faculties of body and mind. Whatever cuts off or dulls one sense closes an avenue to enjoyment and so far lowers the general tone of the senses; and at least four of the five senses are dulled or perverted by life in New York. First, the sight is limited by the high buildings and narrow streets; it is weakened and perverted by the constant view of gray stone, red brick or other wearing colors. The ruralist is forever exercising his eye in the most healthful way. Now he looks far across green fields and meadows, now into the dark green forests; again he gazes into pure running water, and yet again into the deep blue sky untainted by smoke. His eye is forever readjusting its focus to the far and the near, and forever growing stronger. But city children are as constantly tending to nearsightedness. It is estimated by physicians that 30 per cent. of the school children in this city are, to some extent, myopic, and it is shocking to see the number of them who use glasses—shocking to see the steel bow on the nose of a little fellow of 10 or 12 who ought to be able to knock a squirrel at sixty yards with a rifle. If families could live permanently in this city boys would be born in the fifth generation who couldn't tell a man from a cow two squares away.

With hearing, it is still worse. Almost every sound the ruralist hears is rhythmical—the lowing of cattle, the twitter of birds, the sigh of the wind in the trees, the caw of the crows. Even the donkey's bray is not distinctly unmusical. But on the city's busy streets every sound is a discord—the rattle of carts on the stony paving, the roar of the elevated roads, the clatter of bells, the scream of engines. Even the newsboys cry their papers in a harsh falsetto, which can only be rivaled in a Chinese theatre. Of course the ear is dulled and loses its delicate sense of harmony. I wonder if this is not the reason city people can enjoy Wagnerian "music"—the banging on anvils and clashing of metals instead of melody. It might be worth while to inquire if any of the great singers were born in families living on busy streets.

As to food, the contrast is great. The ruralist gets his at first hand—the eggs just from the hen, the milk from the cow, the fruits and vegetables soon after they are gathered, and water from the well or spring. Of sights that offend the eye and shock the sensibilities, the city is full—the blind, the deformed, the vagabond, the drunkard. All these things must have an adverse influence on nerve centers. The city man, it is true, occasionally hears fine music, and is more excited intellectually; but it is a question if this very excitement is not in time exhausting, and hence, fatal to happiness. These are but a few of many reasons for thinking that city life is not joyous. Be the causes what they may, the fact is self evident—too many sad and miserable looking people. It is a plain case to me that, taken as a mass, New Yorkers are not happy.

J. H. BEADLE.

HIS FIRST FRENCH BREAKFAST.

A Correspondent's Struggles with the Tongue of the Gauls.

[Special Correspondence.]

PARIS, May 26.

"Dejeuner un franc 15 centimes." Sign over doorway, Rue St. Denis. Second morning in Paris. Referring to guide book found it meant "breakfast for one franc fifteen centimes." Concluded to dejeune. Went in. Met a lady behind a sort of pulpit. Lady talked to me. Couldn't make her out. Shook my head. Hung out foreign flag. Lady pointed upstairs. Place for breakfast. Didn't want to go. Couldn't make any excuse to get out. Had to go up because I had no language to make an excuse in to get out. Found a long table and forty Frenchmen at it. Don't think an American ever stayed in there before. Waiter put me on a seat.

No written bill of fare. Verbal. Waiter did the verb business in French. Poured it into me. Couldn't make out a word. Waiter waited. Looked at him helplessly. Waiter did it all over again. Caught at last at a word, marengo. "Oui," I said; "marengo. Bon! Bring marengo." Waiter started after marengo. Wondered what it would be—fish, flesh, foul—or soup. Turned out some sort of meat plentifully spiced and plentifully gravied. Made it last as long as I could. Dreaded that waiter and his verbal bill of fare. Waiter darted on my plate. Bore it away before I meant he should. Gabbled at me again. Heard a welcome sound. "Pomme de terre. Potatoes." Called out: "Oui, mongshure. We, madame; portay vous potatoes—I mean pom day tur. We, we." Found forty Frenchmen at table all looking at me and trying not to smile. Polite nation. Very. Never laugh in your face. Perpetual laugh inside. See points very quick. Conceited lot, though. Think Paris the center of universe. Nothing but sand lots and savages outside. Waiter brought potatoes, stewed with more gravy. Very good. Made 'em last as long as possible. Felt very uncomfortable. Knew I wasn't ordering breakfast ship shape and man fashion after French style. Should have commenced with a slice of sausage thin as a wafer and a sprig of cress. Make that last half an hour. One Connecticut river Yankee can swallow half a French breakfast at one mouthful. Potato eaten up. Waiter came again. More gabble. Fired back in East Haddam French. Asked waiter to repeat his observation. Had him there. Got even. Couldn't understand me. Gauls at table startled. Unknown tongue to them. Caught at another word in waiter's torrent of unintelligibility. Fromage! Cheese. What kind? Twenty different kinds of cheese in France. Hard cheese, soft cheese, sage cheese, goat's cheese, cheesy cheese, green cheese and cheese that runs like molasses when you bust its upper crust. Cheese and a spoonful of jam. Dessert, expected to be twenty minutes finishing that, according to Parisian meal regulations. Did it in two minutes, New York ten cent restaurant style. Got up to leave. Could not find my way out. Waiter led me down stairs. Found the lady behind the pulpit at door. Rakes in the cash. Paid her. Twenty-two cents for half bottle of wine, as much bread as I could eat, maringot, potatoes and cheese. Could have had more if I'd talked Frenchy French. Bread in Paris at restaurant table put on by the loaf. Not in scant giblets as with us, who raise bread for the world.

Present to the Emperor.

The emperor of Japan has been making a tour of the chief cities of his kingdom. At Osaka the authorities presented him with a handsomely engrossed copy of the census of the inhabitants of the city, one of the interesting features being that out of 312,000 people 713 were over 80 years of age.

Special Announcement.

The first advance in the price of Ivanhoe lots was made June 1st, as per advertisement for several months. For various good reasons, some of the lots are left at the original prices for another month; but most of them have been advanced 25 to 50 per cent. Even at advanced prices it is the best property offered for the money anywhere around Los Angeles, and buyers should choose their lots before the next advance, which will be made in July. The sale of lots in May was larger than in any previous month, and the end of June will find most of the lots sold. All who see Ivanhoe agree that it is the best property for the least money that can be found. The water system and the dummy road will both be ready by July, and many houses will be built in the next two months. If you want a first-class, large lot, for a small sum of money, come at once. Byram & Poindexter, 27 West First street.

Damaged by Water.

Special sale of damaged dry goods at the Boston Store, 71 and 73 North Spring street. Having made a very satisfactory settlement with the insurance companies for the damage to my wholesale stock by water at the late fire, I shall place on sale in my retail store Wednesday morning, June 22, the entire stock of wet goods at prices that will insure their immediate sale. These goods are damaged by water only. Respectfully, J. W. Robinson.

Burbank.

Only fifteen minutes' ride by the Southern Pacific Railroad, and one hour's ride through a fine valley by carriage, commanding a fine view of Los Angeles, on the south, and a superb view of the entire San Fernando Valley on the north. We request investors to go there and see if this statement is exaggerated.

TWO FRIENDS MEET.

"Hello! old fellow. What have you been doing to yourself? You look like a subject for the undertaker," exclaimed the man on the right.

"I have been taking mercury and potash mixtures until they have nearly ruined me," squeaked the old man on crutches.

"And I," said the other, "have been taking the genuine Swift's Specific, which has built me up from the first dose."

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC.

Nature's own remedy, made from roots gathered from the forests of Georgia. The method by which it is made was obtained by a half-breed from the Creek Indians, who inhabited a certain portion of Georgia, which was communicated to one of the early settlers, and thus the formula has been handed down to the present day. The demand has been increasing until a $100,000 laboratory is now necessary to supply the trade. A foreign demand has been created, and enlarged facilities will be necessary to meet it. This great

THIS IS THE OCEAN TERMINUS OF THE CALIFORNIA CENTRAL RAILROAD, OF THE A[illegible]son, Topeka and Santa Fé system, who are under contract to lay five miles of sidetracks at this point by [illegible] 10, 1887—the shortest railroad line between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. PORT BALLONA is situated on Santa Monica Bay, only thirty minutes' ride by rail from the City of Los Angeles, with trains to begin running every three hours in the day early in July. Property can be purchased now at a much lower figure than when [illegible] roads and steamships are brought together. PORT BALLONA has two main avenues, one 100 feet and one 8[illegible] wide, with all other streets 60 feet. Residence lots are 40x150, and business lots 25x100 and 25x150 feet. The [illegible] dence property is at an elevation of from 50 to 75 feet above tide-water, thus affording a most magnificent view, extending from Point Duma to the San Jacinto Mountains, and from the San Bernardino Mountains to Santa Catalina Island in the Blue Pacific, and with a Beach unsurpassed on the Coast.

The Beautiful Lake of Ballona

Is one of the greatest features of the place, affording, at all times, a perfectly safe and pleasant place for Sailing and Boating of all kinds, and teeming with Fish and Water Fowl. There is also a never-failing Spring of Pure Sulphur Water, and both sulphur and salt water bath-houses are already in course of construction.

Water will be delivered in iron pipes in front of each lot under good pressure.

BURTON MOUND,

A Seaside Hotel Resort at Santa Barbara.

IN SEEKING FOR A PLACE TO erect a large hotel to accommodate tourists and other guests, perhaps none can be found combining more attractions than the "Burton Mound." Situated at the foot of the long, gentle slope on which the city of Santa Barbara lies, the 28-acre tract called "Seaside Hotel Property" has the advantage of a mound, which comprises about three acres, rising above the surrounding lands to the height of twenty feet. This mound rises gradually, and is sufficiently level on top to admit of large buildings, with cottages surrounding. While in the city, it seems in the country. It is one tier of blocks from the busiest street and wharf, and runs down to tidewater, with a wide, smooth beach in front. No miasmatic swamps are near. The temperature is warm in winter and cool in summer. Temperature of ocean water varies but eight degrees in the whole year. Ocean bathing is practiced by many the whole year round. It holds in view the ocean, mountains, foothills, islands and beautiful valleys of Carpinteria and Montecito. The Old Mission Church is seen in the northwest, and the beautiful grounds and mansion of Mr. Dibblee on the high knoll adjacent.

A spring of sulphur water bubbles up on one side of the mound, and another in which iron predominates springs from the other side, so that baths of these two, and of the ocean water as well, and baths of pure, cold, soft water may be had at trifling expense.

This choice and desirable site for a seaside hotel is for sale. Inquiries may be made in person or by letter of any of the following stockholders or directors:

DR. J. B. SHAW,
MILO SAWYER,
FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF SANTA BARBARA,
THOMAS B. DIBBLEE,

BEAUTIFUL BURTON MOUND!

HYDE PARK!

Look where you will in the vicinity of the city of Los Angeles, in search either of property, for charming homes, and the best judgments will be convinced at a glance of the impossibility of finding a location for a town so beautiful, such pure and bracing lands as characterizes Hyde Park. This splendid townsite is located on the Southern California Central, of the A., T. & S. F. system, which is to connect Los Angeles harbor at La Ballona, and is distant 7¼ miles from the center of the city. Between the city and the harbor. Trains are to be running through the [illegible] great business activity all along the line will be the order of the day. Lots 50 feet, fronting on sixty-foot avenues, are offered and sold at $40 cash, balance $10 per month, without interest. [illegible] each lot and streets graded. Such terms give the [illegible] portunity to make money in the rising values that must [illegible] railroad developments. Particularly desirable are the [illegible] town. SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

Our Forthcoming Semi-annual Trade Number of "The Times."

On the 1st day of July (instead of June 26th, as heretofore announced), THE TIMES will issue its SEMI-ANNUAL TRADE NUMBER, a 16-page sheet, containing a complete busines review of the first half of the year 1887, embracing real estate, commercial, manufacturing, banking, railroad, shipping, postoffice and other statistics of progress in Los Angeles and Southern California.

Besides which there will be a large volume of telegraphic, local, editorial and miscellaneous matter, and, in addition, a history of THE TIMES and THE MIRROR, and an article descriptive of the new Times Building. The paper will be illustrated with cuts of the interior and exterior of the building, and with diagrams showing its arrangement. The several departments of the newspaper, job-printing and binding business will also be canvassed, so that a very fair idea of their interesting features may be obtained.

An edition of 15,000 copies is guaranteed. Here is an excellent opportunity for advertisers to "make a strike."

Those who wish to secure advertising space in, or extra copies of, this especially desirable publication should communicate at once with the business office of THE TIMES. Rates will be given on application.

TIMES TELEPHONE.

People who have occasion to call up THE TIMES editorial rooms by telephone will please note the fact that the number has been changed to 674. The number of the counting-room remains the same as formerly—29.

SAN BERNARDINO is going to celebrate the Fourth. She will do it up brown.

THE San Diegan don't like to hear anything said about the battle-flags. It would like the country to forget all about the "late unpleasantness."

CORONADO BEACH is getting to be quite a popular Sunday resort for restless San Diegans. It boasts of having last Sunday 2000 visitors from the city of Bayncimate.

CLARA FOLTZ, of the unsuppressed San Diego Bee, announces that a new outfit of type and a power press are on the way for her, and she will issue her paper from her own office in a few days.

AN up-country paper has it that Mrs. Clara Foltz, the editor of the San Diego Bee, has been tendered by Gov. Bartlett a position as one of the trustees of the Los Angeles Normal School.

SACRAMENTO and San San José have got to quareling over their respective climates, and Los Angeles can sit on the fence and laugh. What does either of them know about the real simon-pure ozone of Eden?

MRS. LANGTRY, now playing an engagement in San Francisco, has signified her intention of passing several months in California, and all the little tuft-hunting towns up-country are fighting for the privilege of entertaining her.

ST. LOUIS is determined to learn what Sunday is like, and therefore has ordered that all the saloons and places of amusement of every description in the city shall be closed on the Sabbath. Such a law as that would work a big change in Los Angeles.

THE University of Southern California held its highly-creditable commencement exercises yesterday, and conferred degrees of various grades upon fourteen graduates. The University is splendidly endowed, both in money and in zeal, and is doing valuable work.

THE Santa Barbara Press very forcibly observes that "half a dozen lines is all the space the San Francisco papers can spare for the announcement that six cases of smallpox have been discovered in that city. Columns could not contain their anxiety when Los Angeles was similarly affected a few months ago."

PROF. DWIGHT, of Columbia, says of Henry George's theory: "Without private property in land, no man can have an assured birthplace or burial-place. No tree can be planted that he can call his own, nor can any dwelling be erected that will give him assured shelter." Delightful state of chaos to contemplate, isn't it?

"An Up-Coast Idea."

A favorite San Diego scheme is set forth in the Union of that place under the above caption. The scheme is, in short, to establish a line of steamers which shall be run direct from what our contemporary is pleased to call "the terminus of the Santa Fé system" (San Diego) to San Francisco. Says the Union:

"Such a line, if established, would be of incalculable value, not only to this city, but to this whole section of country. The time now made by the steamers, which make three or four stops coming from San Francisco here, is about sixty hours. If a line of steamers should be put on to come from San Francisco direct to this port, and make no stops, the time could be reduced to thirty hours easily and possibly twenty-four. With such an arrangement shipments could be made at San Francisco by steamer brought to this port, reshipped by rail and delivered at Colton, San Bernardino, Los Angeles and all other interior points of this southern country full twenty-four hours ahead of the present time. The advantages to our people thus presented are apparent, and could not fail to be practically appreciated by a liberal patronage.

"Such an arrangement, it seems to us, would also be of advantage to the Santa Fé people, for it would at once give them a line to San Francisco and dispose of all the vexatious problems of right of way, engineer and construction difficulties, and the enormous expense that would be necessary in building a rail line from Mojave to the Golden Gate. The same plan has been adopted on the Atlantic coast and found satisfactory. The Santa Fé itself has an ocean line from Galveston to New York, and the Southern Pacific has a similar line from Newport News, over which it sends the bulk of its freight.

"We understand that our Chamber of Commerce intends to call the attention of the Santa Fé directors to these facts. If those gentlemen decide to adopt these suggestions, they can be assured of the heartiest cooperation of the people of this city and section."

This is very beautiful—on paper. But as a practical proposition in the carrying trade, is there not some doubt about the expediency of running steamers right through from the city of Bayncliмate to the city of the Golden Gate without any intervening stoppages? Possibly the matter-of-fact railroad operators and marine manipulators who take the venture in hand—if ever it be launched—will reject the rosy-hued through-line proposition, and insist upon calling at way ports, and picking up business just like any other steamer line. Perhaps, attracted by the rich traffic of the metropolis of the South—to wit, Los Angeles—these leagued ship-and-rail commercial conquistadores may just head their fleets for the Bay of San Pedro, or even the coming harbor of La Ballona, and there load and discharge like any other unromantic coastwise traders.

All this, to be sure, would be done to the deep disgust of San Diego, which insists that it is the only port between Point Reyes and the eenamost eend of the peninsula of Baja California; but this world is full of disappointments, and the city of Bayncliмate is compelled to frequently encounter, in its onward march, a lion in its path.

We "name no names;" the leonine monster can roar out his own name from the depths of his lair in the orange groves. Selah!

The Government's Surplus.

A circular sent out by the banking house of Harvey Fisk & Sons, New York, advocates strongly the use of the $200,000,000 surplus, likely to be in the Treasury of the United States at the end of the next fiscal year, for the purchase of Government bonds, to save interest. It is urged that Uncle Sam is not likely to benefit the business interests of the country by locking up this large amount of money, and, moreover, it would be poor business policy for him to keep the idle treasure in his strong box while his interest is running along. Fisk & Sons figure out the saving by the deal which they suggest as follows:

With this $200,000,000 of money the Government could probably purchase $100,000,000 of 4 per cents and $60,000,000 of 4½ per cents. If these same bonds remain outstanding until maturity the Government will have to pay

Principal, 4 per cents	$100,000,000
Interest to July 1, 1907	80,000,000
Principal, 4½ per cents	60,000,000
Interest to Sept. 1, 1891	11,475,000
Total	$251,475,000
Cost say	200,000,000
Saving	$ 51,475,000

The circular concludes:

"That the people of the United States desire to see the debt paid, goes without saying. Ask France, Italy, Austria, Russia and even England if a national debt is a national blessing. Would the people and money from all parts of the world flow to this country if we were ground down by a huge debt and low credit?"

Good reasoning, this, but we have not been accustomed to find Eastern bankers talking in such a vein. And so, answering Messrs. Fisk & Son's interrogatories in the approved Yankee fashion, we rise to inquire What's up?

THE Anaheim Gazette and all the other little papers that are willing to help cover up a crime because it has not been, and, perhaps, can not be thoroughly exposed, are welcome to their fling at THE TIMES concerning its attitude on the Foran murder. We announce it as our unalterable opinion that a man can not successively implant two bullets in his own brain. When the mortally wounded priest lay in his helpless and speechless condition, on the verge of death, he was repeatedly asked, "Who shot you? Did you do it?" and he as often shook his head, answering as plainly as he could, No. The unfortunate man, we believe, signified the truth. Some day it may be known who killed Father Foran. We are fatalist enough to believe that "murder will out" in the majority of cases.

THE TIMES is indebted to James Montgomery, a well-known jeweler, of this city, who is now visiting his old home in Canada, for Queen's Jubilee issues of the Montreal Star, the Montreal Witness, and the London Graphic. The Graphic's Jubilee edition is perhaps the most costly special edition ever issued by any newspaper. It is forty-eight pages, and has sixteen superb full-page illustrations, illuminated in gold, besides two fine portraits for framing, and countless small engravings. The Star is one of the finest—if not the finest—special issue ever published in America, with elegant portraits of Queen Victoria and the royal family, with groups of the leading men of Great Britain and Canada during her reign, and numerous pictures illustrative of the principal events of her life. The Witness has an excellent, but less striking, issue.

THE grading force on the Riverside, Santa Ana and Los Angeles branch of the California Central Railway have worked through Santa Ana and are heading for the ocean at San Juan Capistrano. The heaviest grading on the shore end of the line was done some time ago and the work of rounding up the roadway will be rapid. Sleepy old San Juan is the next town to fall in the way of the boom.

THE self-flagellations which San Francisco indulges in during moments of remorse over the wasted opportunities of her career, are a sight to make gods and men weep. Here is the latest from the Examiner:

San Francisco has too long been a slow coach. She finds herself with her old habits amid new conditions, to which those habits are altogether unsuited. A younger California has grown up in the southern portion of the State, which is marching to much quicker time than we of the central and northern sections are accustomed to. Los Angeles is heading the procession, and it is incumbent upon us not to be left behind.

ENGLAND is taking her turn in objecting to foreign immigration, on the ground that it has a direct tendency toward lowering the rate of wages. Her industrial classes are moving in the matter, and asking for governmental restriction of immigration on this ground. Meanwhile everything is being done that can be done to get rid of her helpless and pauper classes by sending them to the United States, together with as many unskilled laborers as are disposed to come. It is this large influx of a worthless foreign element that makes the labor problem such a vexed one for us to deal with.

THE present year will be one of great building activity throughout the country. In New York the proposed expenditures amount to the immense sum of $22,500,000; in Brooklyn, $4,000,000, and most of the other large cities of the country have prospects in proportion. Then there's hundreds of millions to be expended in projected railroads. There will be an immense amount of money placed in constant circulation by these improvements, and if Labor does not hinder operations by its insane strikes, the industrial classes will have nothing to complain of. Work will be plenty and at living rates.

"LOMPOC has discovered that the country from Los Angeles south is a better market for her products than San Francisco," says the Santa Barbara Press. "A good portion of the butter, eggs and poultry product of the valley is now shipped to Los Angeles, where the prices are better and the demand almost unlimited. Some of Lompoc's enterprising merchants are making arrangements to open branches in Los Angeles and San Diego for the sale of their products. The opening of the new railroad will greatly aid their plans, and their shipping trade will develop into a large and lucrative business."

THE famous old English town of Coventry celebrated the Queen's Jubilee and a Lady Godiva pageant together last Tuesday. But the Lady Godiva who rode through the streets this time wore an under robe of cream satin with sleeves long and hanging loosely from a band of gold on the upper part of the arms and bound by a jeweled girdle; a cloak of rose-colored velvet, trimmed with gold and lace and precious stones; a jeweled coronet and chain bracelets and other ornaments, while her hair fell over her shoulders in long waves. Very pretty, no doubt, but how the sentiment drops out of the story when it is thus rehearsed.

IT is a mistake to suppose that "labor produces all the wealth of the world." It has taken something more than mere physical strength and the sweat of the brow of the laboring man to create the wealth that the world has achieved. The skill of invention which perfects and makes useful the appliances of labor is not to be overlooked. The skill of the engineer is required in the building of machinery; brain-power must be had to project and direct the gigantic undertakings which give employment and money to the laborer. There is the capital of brain, as well as muscle, and the one is powerless without the other. They are as mutually dependent as labor and capital, and continued antagonism is mutual self-destruction.

YESTERDAY'S fire showed thoughtful citizens what a volcano the city sleeps over. There was no water thrown upon the flames by steam pressure until twenty-two minutes after the alarm sounded, and even then it was a petty, measly little stream of about twenty feet. In less than one-half that time the great Boston fire got its unconquerable headway, and it is not pleasant to think what the result would have been had yesterday's fire started in the crowded business part of the city. It is evident to all observant people that the fire department and the fire precautions are badly in need of an overhauling. The fire hydrants seemed to give us no water to amount to anything. This sort of thing will not do for Los Angeles.

The Savage Citizen.
[Arizona Citizen.]

While an Apache Indian remains in the Territory, the people can neither hope for security or peace, and granting that we, as citizens of the United States Government, have equal rights with these blood-thirsty savages, we should not be slow in maintaining them. To do this we must figut the devil with fire. Our people must raid the reservation, pick them off singly or in twos. A good Indian is a dead Indian. Let this Sheridanizing influence pervade everything and in the end we will win. To accomplish this there must be organization, for, by unity of action, much can be accomplished, although individual efforts are to be despised, inasmuch as Indians picked off here and there will, in the aggregate, amount to many. The taking of scalps is of small concern; the life of the scalp is what the people are after, and have it they must. Instead of simply waiting to be ambushed and murdered, let the people of Arizona assume the offensive, and two to one we will win. To say the least, the cause is worthy of the trial. Let us try.

Statistics show that of the blind less than one-fifth are under 10 years of age, showing that blindness is not so much a misfortune of childhood as of later years.

FONCK'S FATE.

He's Again in Hot Water, Now Matrimonial.

John L. Fonck is an ex-policeman, and is well-known and liked throughout the city, though the gamblers "have it in for him." No one who knows him would believe that he has a great big skeleton in his closet, but his wife says he has, and she verifies her statement in the form of a great long complaint for divorce. In this complaint, which was filed yesterday, she sets forth that he has treated her cruelly and abused her during the year last past at various times. She says she is prepared to prove her statements by persons who have bearded in their house in East Los Angeles. She has been compelled to flee from him at various times because she was afraid he would kill her, and she knows that she cannot live with him in the future.

In the afternoon Deputy Sheriff Dick Barham served a restraining order on Fonck, in which he was ordered not to touch any of the furniture in the house. He was also ordered not to molest or trouble either of the minor children, who are now in the care of Mrs. Fonck. Fonck has not yet filed his answer, but it is understood that he will bring out some things that will prove very sensational at the trial.

A WILD-DRUNK COON.

He Makes Rome Howl Awhile in the City Jail.

Officer Scott arrested a colored man named George Hawkins, on Main street, about 11:30 o'clock last night, and booked him at the police station as drunk and disorderly. When Hawkins was locked in a cell, he set up a most terrible racket—yelling murder at the top of his voice, battering the iron door of his cell with a tin can, and howling and raging like a wild beast. So loud were his yells that some of the people living near the jail were awakened, and jumped up to see who was being murdered, only to go back home in disgust when the location of the turmoil was discovered, and it was found to be whisky in a black man. The prisoner kept up his horrible cries and imprecations for an hour or so, until he was compelled to cease from sheer exhaustion.

The Canning Season.

Mr. Welsh, of the Southern California Packing Company, states that his company is now ready to begin packing, and will take any quantity of choice fruits. The capacity of the factory has been doubled, and it will now take care of fifteen to twenty tons of fruit a day. The company will want in all upwards of 200 tons of apricots, 200 of peaches, and has already contracted for 500 tons of tomatoes. About 150 hands will be employed for the next four months.

Struck at Last.

The boom has struck Sonoratown. For a long time the title to property in that portion of town has been considered so dubious that but few sales could be made, but the ice has been broken, and titles are being perfected every day. It is understood that a big depot will soon be erected on the corner of Virgin and Upper Main streets, and property in that vicinity has been changing hands rapidly during the past few days.

Another Victim.

A Pasadena youth named William F. Flavin came to this city last night and got on a drunk. Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning he was drinking with a couple of pimps on Alameda street, near the old depot, and on going out, one of them stood him up and robbed him of a $35 watch and a $10 chain. Flavin was so drunk that the officers locked him up until he can tell who the thieves were.

Pullman Passengers.

The following passengers left Los Angeles by Pullman cars yesterday:

1:30 p.m. train—Miss Parker, S. O. Houghton, F. R. Webster, J. C. Lynch, Col. Wells, M. Edgerton, O. Allen, H. L. Hill, Charles Jacobs, C. J. Burns, Jacob Field.

7:30 p.m. train—R. J. Woods, —— Moore, Mrs. W. H. Van Slyke, —— Constantine, William Sexton, F. Pixley, M. A. Rowe, Mrs. Riagan, C. A. Paige, J. L. Ivett.

Y. M. C. I. Officers.

At a meeting of the Young Men's Catholic Institute last night, the following officers were elected: President, M. Lacy; first vice-president, M. Kirwan; second vice-president, L. D. Dean; treasurer, E. Quarre; corresponding secretary, H. B. Sullivan; recording secretary, J. K. Chalmers; marshals, J. Cussen and J. Spimle.

Departures by Steamer.

The steamer Los Angeles sailed for San Francisco and way ports yesterday with the following Los Angeles passengers on board:

For San Francisco—Mary Goffrier, E. T. King and wife, William Lacy, and six in steerage.
For Monterey—H. N. Whitcomb.
For Port Harford—J. H. Bell and wife.

Postponed.

Miss Wiseman's concert, for the benefit of the parsonage fund of the Trinity Church, which was intended for the 29th inst., has been postponed until Friday, July 1st, on account of the G. A. R. entertainment.

Richmond's Lecture.

A free lecture will be delivered Saturday evening, June 25th, by Hon. T. C. Richmond, of Wisconsin, at Armory Hall. Subject: "An Election—What Is It?"

Moving Along.

The front section of the old Turnverein Hall is moving slowly towards its new site, at the northwest corner of Fort and Third streets.

Santa Monica Notes.
[Santa Monica Outlook.]

Scott Brothers began the construction of a new bath-house this morning on the northwest corner of their grounds. The building, which will be nearly square, is to contain 160 rooms, with a flat top made of flooring. The second roof will be covered with a canopy top and guarded with a railing.

The cars upon W. D. Vawter's street railway began running last Monday. In a little while the track will reach the southern limits of the town, and it will then be about two miles and a half long. It will require a little time to have the horses properly broken in and get every thing in good running order.

Santa Monica looks rather "cityfied," with its street railway. This, however, is only the beginning of the end. An application has already been made for a francaise to construct gas works. We shall next have another broad-gauge railway, to be followed by an electric road, or a dummy, or both. Then we are to have a fine wharf. The "City by the Sea" is in line, and proposes to keep step with the livest towns in Southern California.

Bouquets Are in Order.
[Atlanta Constitution.]

Matthew Arnold was recently asked what he took to be the best standard of pronunciation. In reply he passed over all the dictionaries, all the learned doctors, and all the college professors, and all the actors, and said: "The best authority is the usage of well-bred woman." Bouquets may be sent to the poet's regular London address.

Can't Get Them to Run.
[Life.]

"Let us elect to our halls of Legislature," shouted an eloquent candidate, "men who are endowed with common sense." A momentary pause here for the sentiment to be applauded when a voice came from the gallery: "But you can't get such men to run."

A woman in Roscommon County, Mich., who was trying to put out a fire on the roof of her house, was blown from the building by a high wind and her arm broken. Nevertheless, she climbed to the roof twice afterward and put out the fire. Then she fainted.

One lady caused no less than fifteen duels in the garrison at Grau, in Hungary, lately. Fifteen officers fought duels with as many civilians of the town in one week. Two of them were killed, and most of their antagonists badly wounded.

New York hop-growers think the industry has seen its best days in that State. The cost of production has increased, vermin are cutting short the crops year after year, and brewers are making extensive and growing use of substitutes for hops. Prices are depressed and many hop fields are being plowed up and devoted to other crops. In some yards the vermin have killed the vines outright.

Opium Fiends Arrested.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, June 23.—An opium den in Chinatown was raided on Monday, at about midnight, and the Mongolian proprietor, Ah Sing, and a white man and girl were arrested. The white visitors were fined and released yesterday. Ah Sing is yet to be tried. The white girl is only 16 years of age, and is prepossessing in appearance.

Friends of American Shipping.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—At a meeting today of the Financial Committee of the Shipping and Industrial Association of this coast it was decided that contributions be solicited from those interested in the revival of American shipping. The committee will meet next Thursday to make a general report of progress made.

Large Seizures of Opium.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—Since May 15th several small seizures of opium, aggregating $2000, have been made, but the total amount seized since January 1st is $81,341 worth. More contraband opium has been captured during the last twelve months than during the nine or ten preceding years.

Identified.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—L. Prophet, who was found drowned last Saturday at Santa Barbara, has been identified as a former resident here. He was a carpenter by trade, and bore a very good reputation. He was a widower, and, as far as known, was without family.

The Commission Coming.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—It is the general understanding that the Interstate Commerce Commissioners will come to this city either next month or the first part of August, and here begin the long and arduous task of investigating the Pacific coast system of railroads.

Gone Into Insolvency.

SPRINGFIELD (O.), June 23.—Whitely, Fossler & Kelly, the great reaper manufacturers, went into the hands of a receiver this evening for the protection of their interests, on account of financial difficulties of other parties. The assignment is only temporary.

Investigating a Shortage.

SACRAMENTO, June 23.—The State Board of Examiners has been for some time investigating an apparent shortage in the State text-book appropriation of $23,000. The examiners have found that the money has been used in other departments of the office.

Mississippi Justice.

ABERDEEN (Miss.), June 23.—At 2 o'clock this morning forty masked men rode into Kosciusko and proceeded to the jail. They overpowered the jailer and took out James M. Webb, a white man, and hanged him. On Sunday last Webb poisoned his wife.

Will Not Concede the Advance.

PITTSBURGH, June 23.—The sheet-iron manufacturers interested in the stamping and hollow-ware branch of the business considered the new scale offered by the Amalgamated Association, and decided it impossible to concede an advance.

PACIFIC COAST.

Another Day of the Del Monte Arson Case.

Ex-Manager Simmons's Conduct on the Night of the Fire.

Senator Fair Sells His Railroad to the Southern Pacific.

Execution of One of Cajeme's Chiefs at Guaymas—Railway Magnates Fixing the Rates on East-Bound Freights—Other Matters on the Coast.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SALINAS, June 23.—[By the Associated Press.] In the Simmons trial this morning William K. Lindt testified to having on the night of the fire, while endeavoring to find the origin of the flames, stumbled over a bottle which had contained turpentine, as he found by smelling his fingers. The fire had the fumes of turpentine.

John E. Day, an employé of the burned hotel, testified to the circumstances of the discovery of the fire.

Martin Cannon, night watchman, testified to the fact that all the personal effects of Simmons were out of the house at the time of the fire.

Charles F. Capp, barkeeper, testified that Clough was not drunk on the night of the fire.

F. A. Botsch, telegraph operator at the hotel, denied the statement made in Simmons's affidavit that on the night of the fire they had a conversation about the likelihood of fire occurring from leaving matches lying carelessly around. The cross-examination shook the witness's testimony in some particulars.

Charles Johnson, porter, testified that he was carrying the hotel books from the office to a place of safety. Simmons ordered him to desist, and thrust the books back into the burning building. He stated, on cross-examination, that Simmons said: "These are all old register books and of no account. There is no use in taking them out."

Lena Cotter, a chambermaid, saw Simmons walk hurriedly to his room at 10:40 p.m. Half an hour later the fire was discovered.

J. Sullivan, when sworn, testified that he was a bell-boy in the main building. About 10:50 he left the office to go to the defendant's room to bid him good-bye, but waited in the hallway a while, and soon discovered smoke. Witness then saw the accused come from his room in a somewhat excited condition. Simmons afterwards did his best to unreel some hose in the yard, and directed the movements of the men.

Henry Bach, watchman, testified that the time at which defendant rushed from the lower stairs was fixed at between five and eight minutes to 11 o'clock. Simmons was then ashy pale, and rested his head on his hands, which were on the counter. He afterwards paced the floor for a moment, and then sat down until the alarm was given. Witness maintained that defendant was pale, but he could not say whether the paleness was from sickness or not. Witness was on good terms with defendant. Simmons once said that he would get even with the company.

E. C. Lewis testified that he was employed at the Del Monte on April 1st as bookkeeper. "I received that day," said the witness, "about $500, which I placed in the cash-book." [Here the remnants of the cash-book were produced, which were nothing more than a mass of burned paper.] Continuing, the witness said: "I was present when Simmons turned the hotel over to Schoenwald. There was in the cash-drawer at the time of the transfer $1307, and in the safe $2965. Simmons left the office about 4 o'clock that day. I did not see him again until the fire was under way. He told me then that he had broken open the cash-drawer and started to take the contents and the transient ledger out, but had to drop the book." Under cross-examination by Mr. Delmas, the witness stated that he had counted the money himself, and that Simmons had nothing to do with it. He had some time before been employed in the hotel as telegraph operator and express agent. Simmons had asked him to take the place of book-keeper.

J. S. Sullivan was recalled, and said that when the fire company came from Monterey they wanted to attach their hose to a hydrant near the annex, when Simmons told them not to take that hydrant, that it was occupied.

Adjourned until tomorrow at 9 o'clock, when the prosecution expect to close their case.

RAILWAY RATES.

A Cut on California Wine—The Tariff Finally Fixed.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—[By the Associated Press.] The wine rates from California to the Atlantic seaboard are greatly disturbed. A few weeks ago the Atlantic and Pacific began to ship wine from Los Angeles to New York for $1 a hundred pounds, the traffic rate from all California points being $1.25. The Sunset agents knew nothing of the cut until recently, when they began to quote a dollar rate from all points of this State. The Atlantic and Pacific maintained the tariff rates here for a day or two, and then swung out with a 96-cent rate. The Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and other lines have met the cut, and wine going East now takes a rate of 96 cents per hundred pounds. It is stated that all shipments now made are billed out of this city at full tariff rates, the shipper receiving a rebate of 20 cents a hundred. The proportion of through rate received by the lines between this city and Chicago is only 64½ cents, as the Eastern trunk lines come in for their full proportion of 25 per cent of the tariff of $1.25.

THE RATES FIXED.

A meeting of the general freight agents of the east-bound roads was held at the office of the Atlantic and Pacific Company this morning. The object of the meeting was to fix the tariff on wine and brandy. The rate of late has not been uniform on all the roads, although the statement is denied that there has been any such cutting of rates as alleged in a morning contemporary. The session, as usual, was executive, but at its conclusion the information was given that a uniform rate had been made which will go into effect immediately. The tariff agreed upon is as follows: Wine, in the wood, carload lots, 10 cents per pound to New York, and 80 cents to Chicago, St. Louis and Missouri River points. Brandy, in the wood, carload lots, 12½ cents per pound to New York and 10 cents per pound to Chicago, St. Louis and Missouri River points.

A RAILWAY SOLD.

Senator Fair's Road Transferred to the Southern Pacific.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—[Special.] The Morning Call will say tomorrow: "The sale of the South Pacific Coast Railroad, which operates from San Francisco to Santa Cruz, to the Southern Pacific, was consummated today by the payment to Senator Fair of $200,000 worth of bonds, signed and stamped. In consequence of the immense amount of work necessitated by the magnitude of the transaction it will not be possible to make the transfer by the 1st of July. It will be made, however, at some date between the 6th and 20th, but not later." RUS.

EXECUTED.

One of Cajeme's Chiefs Shares His Leader's Fate.

PHŒNIX, June 23.—Private advices from Guaymas state that the Yaqui chief, Anastacio Cuca, one of Cajeme's lieutenants during the late Yaqui war, was executed a few days ago at Yaqui River, in the presence of his people. At the close of the Yaqui war, and the capture of Cajeme, Cuca fled to the United States, but was captured at Tucson and surrendered to the Mexican authorities on a requisition from the Governor of Sonora. The charges against him were of cold-blooded murder and robbery in the district of Guaymas. This district, it will be remembered, was the scene of the Topah war.

Suicide of Young Alvarado.

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.), June 23.—T. F. Alvarado, son of the late Gov. Alvarado, of California, committed suicide by drowning himself, at Socorro, on Wednesday. Despondency over the loss of a large estate in California, which he claimed to have been defrauded of, is said to have been the cause of the suicide.

A Blaze at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—A fire broke out in the roof of a building on Pine street, near Kearny, occupied by the San Francisco School of Design and owned by J. B. Haggin. The fire was a difficult one to suppress, owing to its being what is known as a "blind fire." The damage to the art school property is estimated at $2000; fully insured. The building was only slightly damaged. Most of the damage was caused by the breakage of statuary while being removed to a place of safety. The fire is supposed to have been caused by a defective flue.

A MYSTERIOUS CASE.

Another Chapter About Michigan's Missing Heiress—Mrs. Brooks Leaves for the East—Her Story Doubted.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—[By the Associated Press.] The mysterious Anna J. Butterfield, who left Riverside last Sunday, and who was suspected of having had some connection with the alleged abduction of Mrs. Brooks, of Tuscola, Mich., has been discovered in this city. She appeared to be partially demented, and the detectives are of the opinion that she is Mrs. Brooks herself. Her fortune, if she received any at Denver, as stated in the telegrams from there, has apparently disappeared.

THE WHOLE THING A CANARD.

DENVER, June 23.—Detectives acquainted with the case are satisfied that Mrs. Brooks, whom recent telegrams from Vassar, Mich., claimed was held a captive in California by bandits in order to secure possession of her fortune, and Mrs. Anna J. Butterfield, of Riverside, Cal., are one and the same person, and that she has not, nor never had, the amount of money left her that she claims. They regard the stories in circulation about her as a canard.

THE HEIRESS GOES EAST.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—Mrs. Anna J. Butterfield, who is now believed here to be Mrs. Brooks, the supposed heiress from Michigan, left today, saying that she was going East. The mystery surrounding this case has not yet been removed. Mrs. Butterfield has given so many versions of her connection with the case that it is impossible to state which is the true version. The police here, who have questioned her closely, hold that she is Mrs. Brooks, that the story of her receiving a large fortune is a myth, and that she has so far lost her reason as scarcely to be responsible for her acts.

TURF TOPICS.

Speculation About the Chicago Derby—Some Races.

CHICAGO, June 23.—[By the Associated Press.] Saturday will be Chicago's Derby day at Washington Park. The list of California horses is large, and the great question is whether California for the third time in succession is to carry off the great prize. The records of the horses entered are all in favor of California. The roll of honor is already adorned with the names of Modesty, Volante and Silver Cloud. Looking at the recent performances of Miss Ford, and adding thereto the formidable reputations of Goliah, C. H. Todd and Safe Ban, it is hard to see how California can lose. The Derby is likely to be contested for by Duke of Bourbon, Carey, Unite, Clarion, Terra Cotta, Fenelon, Libretto, White Nose, Montrose, C. H. Todd, Jim Gore, Procrastinator, Goliah, Miss Ford, Wary and Safe Ban. These have received special preparation for this race alone. Of the last the Duke of Bourbon, Procrastinator and White Rose have no winning credentials this year sufficient to entitle them to consideration, but each of the others has at one time or another done something to justify the opinion that a chance exists for their winning the race. Miss Ford and Goliah seem the favorites.

CONEY ISLAND RACES.

CONEY ISLAND, June 23.—The track was very muddy.

Seven-eighths of a mile—Young Duke first, Mamzelle second, Himalaya third. Time, 1:33. Fourteen starters.

Spring stakes, three-fourths of a mile, five starters—Satisfaction first, Fordham second, Kingfish third. Time, 1:18.

Rapid stakes, seven-eighths of a mile, seven starters—Mona first, Climax second, Saxony third. Time, 1:30¾.

Coney Island Derby, mile and a half—Hanover first, Oreko second, the Fairfax stable's Hypasia third. Time, 2:44½.

One and three-eighth miles—Wonderment won, Ernest second, Ferona third. Time, 2:28¾.

Hurdle race, two and one-eighth miles—Shamrock won, Mammonist second, Maj. Pickett third. Time, 4:32.

TO TRY FOR THE PRIZE.

CHICAGO, June 23.—The following horses, with weights, were announced positively as starters in the American Derby, to be run Saturday at Washington Park: Cary, 118 pounds, Clarion 121, Terra-Cotta 121, Fenelon 118, Libretto 121, White Nose 118, Montrose 121, C. H. Todd 118, Jim Gore 121, Goliah 118, Miss Ford 113, Wary 116, Safe Ban 118, Hindoo Rose 113.

Booming the Salt River Valley.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—The Evening Post, commenting on the rapidly nearing completion of the Maricopa and Phœnix Railroad, which will give Phœnix railroad connection with the outside world, says: "The Salt River Valley is certain to be a great competitor of Los Angeles, being equally favored as to climate and soil, and with an abundance of water for irrigation purposes, while the season for all fruits is from ten to thirty days earlier. It is, moreover, twenty-four hours nearer the Eastern markets, a matter of vital importance when the ship

Illinois Cattlemen Taking Rigid Precautions Against Diseased Stock—Dr. McGlynn's Latest Denunciation of Rome—The Jake Sharp Trial—Notes.

By Telegraph to The Times.

CHICAGO, June 23.—[By the Associated Press.] The Inter Ocean's Danville (Ill.) special says: In response to a request from Danville that he deliver an address at its fair this year, Jefferson Davis has replied that it will be impossible for him to come to Illinois this year. In his letter, which was received today, Mr. Davis says, referring to the rebel-flags episode of recent date: "The order of the War Department to return the captured flags to the late Confederate States was a violation of all known military precedents. The flags were captured by the volunteer army of the North, and belong to the several States."

WASHINGTON.

New Postal Arrangements—An Indian School Superintendent Appointed.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—[Special.] The Call's Washington special says: "The railroad mail service has been ordered discontinued from Colton to Los Angeles from July 3d next. Railroad service will be established from San Bernardino via intermediate postoffices to Duarte, Cal., on the California Central Railroad, six times a week, or as much oftener as trains run, from July 4th next."

AN INDIAN SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—[Special.] Prof. A. H. James, for the past fourteen years connected with Columbia University, has been appointed superintendent of Indian schools for the District of Southern California, and is now en route for his new field of labor. RUS.

THE BATTLE-FLAG CONTROVERSY.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—[By the Associated Press.] The recent controversy over the captured battle-flags caused many inquiries as to the disposition made of the naval flags captured during the late Civil War. It is learned at the Navy Department that some of the flags captured were turned over to the Naval Academy and are now there. An accidental fire in the old Navy Department building several years ago destroyed some of them.

THE HAWAIIAN FUSS.

Another Statement About That Shipment of Arms.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—[Special.] Relative to the shipment of arms to Honolulu on the 20th, John D. Spreckels & Bros., proprietors of the California Sugar Refinery, who possess large sugar plantations in Hawaii, and who are also proprietors of the Oceanic Steamship Company, made today the following statement: "The dispatch from Washington in this morning's papers, containing a denial from H. A. P. Carter, Hawaiian Minister to the United States, regarding the shipment of arms, says that the weapons and ammunition were consigned to W. G. Irwin & Co., of Honolulu, who are our agents at that point. None of the shipments made were consigned to W. G. Irwin & Co., nor were they made by us. The consigners were T. T. Waterhouse, Castle & Cooke, E. O. Hall & Son, C. Brewer & Co., Hoffschlager & Co. and Mrs. Thomas Lock." In reference to Spreckels's statement here made, it may be mentioned that Minister Carter, at Washington, is a member of the firm of C. Brewer & Co., one of the firms mentioned above as importers of the firearms. RUS.

DISEASED CATTLE.

Illinois Breeders Taking Precautions Against Infected Stock.

CHICAGO, June 23.—[By the Associated Press.] A Springfield (Ill.) special says: "Many of the leading breeders and shippers of cattle in the central portion of the State held a meeting today and effected a formal organization for the purpose of combating the proposed change in the rate for the shipment of cattle from the car-lot plan to the plan of shipment by rail. A memorial was adopted for transmission to the Secretary of the Treasury setting forth that contagious pleuro-pneumonia exists to an alarming extent in Scotland, that cattle from the infected districts are allowed to land in Canadian ports, and, that as the Treasury Department of the United States have scheduled against the importation of such cattle from Scotland, they request that shipment of cattle from Canada to the United States be prohibited until the Dominion authorities take such action in regard to the shipment of cattle from Scotland as shall insure certain immunity to the United States from their importation through Canadian territory."

McGlynn's Defense.

BUFFALO (N. Y.), June 23.—Father McGlynn, in an interview today, presented his case as that of a man who had been sentenced, being forced to appeal without any idea but that the result was a foregone conclusion, and that he would be snubbed and insulted by the propaganda. He assaults the Church of Rome as the "Romish machine," and closes as follows: "The engineers of the machine, who are profiting by its power and its emoluments, are really laughing in their sleeves at us for our excessive generosity in contributing Peter's Pence to the support of the whole army of lackeys and flunkeys, both lay and clerical, who surround the Pope with barbaric pomp, scarcely equaled by that of any imperial despotic court."

Jake Sharp's Trial.

NEW YORK, June 23.—In the Sharp case today, Foote, of the First National Bank, told of his dealings with Alderman Fraley in January 1885, and also of the denomination of the money the latter used. The prosecution then had the testimony of Sharp before the Senate investigating committee read.

PORTLAND (Or.), June 23.—A report has been received from the Dalles that a party of young people were out sailing last evening, and the boat capsized, and Ben Snipes, Jr., son of a cattle king of Eastern Oregon, and one young lady were drowned. There are no particulars.

To Develop New Mexico.

SANTA FE (N. M.), June 23.—The New Mexico Central Railroad Company was organized here today, with Judge Henry L. Waldo, of Santa Fé, as president; W. H. Remington, of Topeka, as vice-president; E. W. Wilder, of Topeka, as secretary and treasurer; W. W. Griffin, of Santa Fé, as assistant secretary; G. H. Goodwin, of Boston, assistant treasurer; A. A. Robinson, of Topeka, as chief engineer; J. O. Whitehead, of Boston, as controller and general auditor.

The Rio Grande Land Company was also organized, with H. L. Waldo, president; A. H. Johnson, of Topeka, vice-president; E. W. Wilder, secretary and treasurer; W. H. Griffin, assistant secretary, and J. K. Livingston, of Santa Fé, general agent. The company was formed to assist in developing New Mexico, and the Rio Grande Valley particularly. The headquarters are at Santa Fé. The company has purchased 3000 acres adjoining Las Cruces.

The Patriotic Sons.

CHICAGO, June 23.—The Patriotic Sons of America closed their eleventh National convention today. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, George S. Smith, Chicago; vice-president, Frank L. Murphy, Pennsylvania; treasurer, A. B. Phillips, Colorado; secretary, F. W. Hendley, Ohio. The convention adopted a platform declaring against any foreign speculators investing in American real estate.

A CROOKED CONCERN.

The Cincinnati Bank Failure Worse Than First Reported—Liabilities $6,000,000—The Bank's Officers Jailed.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—[By the Associated Press.] At the office of the Comptroller of the Currency it is said that no instructions had been sent to Cincinnati for the arrest of the officers of the Fidelity National Bank, beyond the general instructions sent to the examiner there to take every precaution to prevent the escape of any officer who may be criminally guilty.

CINCINNATI, June 23.—Hon. W. L. Trenholm, Comptroller of the Currency, who arrived here today, was interviewed this evening regarding the Fidelity Bank affair. His suspicion had first been aroused in April last, when he discovered that the Fidelity had the "reserve accounts" of eighty country banks, and that its indebtedness to other banks was very large. When notice of the apparent connection of the bank with the Chicago wheat deal was first given in the press the local examiner was directed to remain in Cincinnati and be ready to act. This was done when the checks were protested in New York. A receiver has not been appointed, but will be by Trenholm. No definite statement of the bank's affairs can be made until after the receiver takes charge. The Government acted as soon as there was tangible evidence of wrong-doing.

A sensational feature of today's proceedings was the surrender late this afternoon of E. L. Harper and E. Hopkins by their bondsmen. Desperate efforts have been made by them tonight to get new bondsmen, but at a late hour they were unsuccessful.

This morning J. W. Wilshire, the broker who took checks of the Fidelity Bank to Chicago to try to hold up the market, was also arrested, and charged with aiding in the willful and unlawful misapplication of funds of the bank. He gave bonds in $35,000.

CINCINNATI, June 23.—Harper and Hopkins, being unable to get bondsmen, went to jail about midnight.

ST. LOUIS, June 23.—The funds in the Fifth National Bank of this city, belonging to the Fidelity Bank of Cincinnati, were garnished today, at the instance of the Union National Bank of Cleveland, to satisfy a debt of $25,000.

Strong Support for McGlynn.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The following cablegram was sent to Rome yesterday to Cardinal Simeoni, Prefect of the Propaganda:

"One hundred thousand Catholics, in mass meeting in this city on Saturday, June 18th, have denounced the threatened excommunication of Dr. McGlynn, with whom they are prepared to stand, and protest against ecclesiastical interference with the political rights of American citizens."

The dispatch is signed by Jeremiah Coughlin, M.D., chairman, and James Gahan, secretary.

The Mayflower Ahead.

MARBLEHEAD (Mass.), June 23.—The fog, which has prevented the yacht race for the past few days, at last has lifted, and the race will be sailed today. The wind is brisk, and the sea heavy. So all the conditions are favorable for the English cutter Galatea.

The Mayflower crossed the line at noon, about one-quarter of a mile ahead of the Galatea, and rounded the stake-boat five and one-half minutes ahead of the Galatea, and crossed the finish line at 4:16. The Galatea crossed the line at 4:30½.

Ancient Order of United Workmen.

MILWAUKEE (Wis.), June 23.—The Supreme Lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen, elected the following officers today: Supreme master workman, William H. Jordan, of Oakland, Cal.; supreme foreman, C. M. Masters, of Sparta, Wis.; supreme overseer, William R. Graham, of Cedar Falls, Iowa; supreme recorder, W. W. Sackett, of Meadville, Pa.; supreme receiver, J. H. Lenhart, of Meadville; supreme guide, John A. Child, of Portland, Or.; supreme watchman, William M. Butts.

Collision at Sea.

BALTIMORE, June 23.—Capt. Hummell, of the British steamship Lore, which arrived here this evening from Rotterdam, reports that on Tuesday last at about 6 o'clock in the evening his vessel collided with a British brigantine, off Prince Edward Island, which was carrying a cargo of sugar from St. Louis to New York. The collision occurred off Cape Henlopen in a dense fog. Three of the brig's crew jumped aboard the Lore, but though the steamer lay around several hours nothing could be seen of the brig.

Brick Pomeroy Prefers Charges.

NEW YORK, June 23.—"Brick" Pomeroy has preferred charges to the Commissioners of Hospitals against the management of the Government Hospital, alleging drunkenness, debauchery, cruelty to patients and incompetency, and asserting that the death of Capt. Jack Hussey was caused, not by the bullet of the drunken policeman, Hahn, but by giving Hussey a hearty meal of corned beef and cabbage.

The Bank All Right.

CHICAGO, June 23.—A special bank examiner and the clearing-house committee have been working all the evening on the books of the American Exchange Bank of this city. They reported late tonight that it is already certain that the bank's credit is not impaired and that the only loss is that of $300,000, already reported by its president.

A Murderer's Escape.

NEBRASKA CITY, June 23.—Quinn Bohannon, a noted outlaw and murderer, under sentence of death and awaiting the decision of the United States Supreme Court escaped from the County Jail last night, and is not yet recaptured. The manner of his escape is a mystery. He was undoubtedly aided from the outside.

The Master Plumbers.

CHICAGO, June 23.—In the convention of master plumbers today the report of the executive committee, recommending continued strict observance of the rule that manufacturers sell plumbers' goods to none but master plumbers, was adopted. Officers were elected and the convention adjourned.

Returning to Work.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The silver-chasers, who have been on a strike nearly three months, are forsaking the Knights of Labor and being taken back by their employers on the condition of their renunciation of allegiance to trades unions. All are expected to be at work in a few days.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

The Countess Campos Reaches England.

She Declares That She Is Not Held as a Prisoner.

The Pope Makes Friendly Overtures to the French Republic.

Disquieting Rumors from the Balkans—A Jubilee Banquet—Catholic Bishops in Council—Other Events Occurring in the Old World.

By Telegraph to The Times.

LONDON, June 23.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The Countess Campos, the young heiress who was carried off from Paris by her lover, has arrived at Dover.

The Countess Campos was accompanied to Dover by Garboeuf, her lover, and three other gentlemen. The Campos's family agent and a French detective, armed with a warrant, visited the hotel where the Countess was stopping, accompanied by the Spanish Consul. The Consul explained to Mlle. Campos how her family felt over her abduction, that the warrant for her arrest was to recover her from her abductors and restore her to her family. She declared that she wished to marry Garboeuf, and that she was not a prisoner against her will. Upon this declaration the English police refused to sanction her arrest.

A JUBILEE BANQUET.

LONDON, June 23.—United States Consul-General Waller presided at a Jubilee banquet given tonight at the Hotel Metropole by the foreign consuls in London. Two hundred persons were present, including representatives of forty nations. Toasts were offered to Queen Victoria, foreign sovereigns and presidents and the corporation of London.

THE POPE AND FRANCE.

PARIS, June 23.—Mgr. Botelli, presenting credentials to President Grevy as papal nuncio, referred to the Pope's affection for France as the eldest daughter of the church and as a noble and generous nation, and said that the Pope desired that a perfect understanding be maintained. The President thanked the nuncio for the friendly sentiments, and said that the Vatican could rely upon the cordial coöperation of the French Government in consolidating the present good relations.

LONDON NOTES.

LONDON, June 23.—The Prince of Wales, with the Kings of Greece, Denmark, Belgium and Saxony, the Crown Prince of Germany, and several other Princes, and Lord Wolseley and the Duke of Cambridge reviewed 12,000 troops at Aldershot today.

A hastily summoned Cabinet meeting was held today to consider the hitch in regard to the Anglo-Turkish convention in reference to Egypt. The Government is irritated at the opposition to the convention on the part of France and Russia.

SUING THE THUNDERER.

LONDON, June 23.—Frank Hugh O'Donnell, formerly member of Parliament for Dungawon, and ex-vice-president of the Home Rule Confederation, has brought suit against the Times for libel. The suit is based upon an article commenting on the letter recently sent to the Times by O'Donnell to correct statements made by that paper regarding the alleged connection of Parnellism with crimes.

BAVARIA'S CRAZY KING.

LONDON, June 23.—A dispatch from Berlin to the Standard says: "An effort will probably be made at the next session of the Bavarian Parliament to dethrone King Otto, who is hopelessly insane. It is stated that a regent will accept the crown if conferred by the people."

BERLIN, June 23.—King Otto of Bavaria has been officially declared insane.

A TOUCH OF LENIENCY.

LONDON, June 23.—The Cabinet has decided to prorogue Parliament about the middle of August. It is reported in Unionist quarters that if strong opposition be offered the proposed supplementary Crimes Bill will be dropped.

HOISTED THE BLACK FLAG.

CORK, June 23.—In consequence of the action of the Mayor of Cork in hoisting a black flag on the occasion of the Queen's Jubilee, and because of his having shown favor to the Nationalist, Plunkett, the divisional magistrate has superseded him, and ordered that only the resident paid magistrate shall try prisoners.

BRIEF MENTION.

BELGRADE (Servia), June 23.—A report is received here from Bulgaria that Stombuloff, one of the regents, and Zirkoff, president of the Sobranje, have been seized by conspirators. The report is not authoritative.

MANCHESTER, June 23.—The fire caused by the explosion has been overcome. Great damage was done to Pomona Palace and many other buildings to which the flames spread. A fireman and a girl were killed.

DUBLIN, June 23.—The annual meeting of Catholic archbishops and bishops was held at Mayrooth College today. Archbishop Walsh presided. A resolution was passed denouncing the coercion measure before Parliament.

PARIS, June 23.—The Journal des Debats denies that the French and Russian ambassadors at Constantinople sent notes to the Porte threatening that war would result if the Egyptian convention was ratified.

THE WEATHER.

Aerial Photographs.

The photographs taken from the Examiner balloon, in San Francisco, are now to be seen in different parts of the city—at Robinson's dry goods store and at Hance's drug store—and have attracted considerable attention. The views of Southern California, to be taken next Sunday at the Sixth-street Base-ball Park, owing to the clearer atmosphere, will far exceed them in effect.

The Wolfskill Ranch.

Four thousand three hunred shares out of a total of 6500 in the Los Angeles and Santa Monica Land and Water Company have been taken. The syndicate offer stock at $100 per share only until June 29th. See Byram & Poindexter for particulars, 27 W. First street.

BUSINESS TOPICS.

People's Store—Specials Today.

In our dress-goods department we have on special sale today two lines of dress goods. The first we mention is of striped cotton cashmeres at 5c. a yard. These goods are being sold at the price of the commonest prints, and as we offer them at 5c. a yard, we expect to be unable, with our entire force, to properly serve our patrons, and suggest that you call early. As is the usual case, after 11 o'clock we expect to see no more on our counters.

Our second special on sale today is a line of mohair mixtures, in brown and gray, for a summer garment. We recommend these goods, at 15c. a yard. They are wool-filling, and when seen you cannot help but purchase. Tomorrow's price, 20c., and cheap at that.

Today is boys' day in our furnishing-goods department. We have on special sale for the boys a line of satin cravats at 5c. each—every one a pretty and neat design. Former price was 25c.

Odds and ends in ladies' jerseys, which we propose to close out today. The total number in all is just 50. We shall place them on sale at the uniform price of 75c each. They are varied in styles and prices. They consist of ladies', misses' and children's sizes, and range in value from $1.15 to $2.50.

Our domestic department offers on special sale yard-wide unbleached muslin at 5c. a yard; worth 8½c.

All-linen striped buggy robes 65c.; worth 95c.

Striped Terry cloth, latest fabric for seaside wear, 25c. a yard.

Pure flax plain dress linen, 15c., for dusters, etc.; worth 25c.

Artists' Excursion.

[Pasadena Union.]

Prof. J. H. Lewis, accompanied by Mrs. Lewis, will spend the month of July at Switzer's camp in sketching the scenery in that vicinity. They will take a few pupils, who will be afforded a splendid opportunity for gaining exceptionally good instruction, and enjoying at the same time the pleasures of mountain life. The terms are very reasonable and all expenses are covered, including board, lodging and instruction in painting. Those desiring to make arrangements for spending a few weeks with Prof. Lewis's party can correspond with him at Sierra Madre, or consult him on Thursdays at his studio, in the W. W. Mills block. We think those who have any artistic taste should avail themselves of this privilege.

Brockton Colony.

A tract of over 7000 acres of magnificent land, beautifully located in the artesian belt, only three miles from Long Beach. A railroad is already surveyed through the tract and will soon be in operation. We will sell this land in lots of ten acres and more at from $65 to $100 per acre. California Land and Investment Company, rooms 12 and 14, 28 South Spring street.

A Beauty.

The pennant which Mr. W. R. Hearst, the owner of the San Francisco Daily Examiner, has offered to the winner of the base-ball game Sunday, is a marvel of beauty, if report can be believed. Mr. Hearst has telegraphed that it will arrive on Sunday in time to be unfurled to the breeze before the game. It is made of the finest silk, and is twelve feet long.

The Last Chance.

The stock of the company managing the Los Angeles and Santa Monica Land and Water Company have subscriptions for 4300 shares out of the total capital stock of 6500 shares. The stock is offered at par only until June 29th, and it will probably all be sold this week. Subscribers can get information at 27 West First street.

Burbank improvements—Street railways and buildings to be built: By a resolution passed by the board of directors, a street railway is to be commenced on Olive avenue, and completed as soon as possible; also, ten more buildings, to be commenced and completed as soon as men and material can be provided—as the demand for buildings is far in excess of the supply.

Best Investment Offered.

Stock in the Los Angeles and Santa Monica Land and Water Company—the famous 4000-acre Wolfskill foothill ranch—only $100 per share, on easy terms; 4300 shares subscribed out of the total number of 6500 in the company. Stock offered at par only until June 29th. Byram & Poindexter, 27 W. First street.

A Specific for Croup.

Mr. J. J. LaGrange, a prominent druggist of Avoca, Neb., says: "I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a specific for Croup. It is very pleasant to take, which is one of the most important requisites where a cough remedy is intended for use among children. I have known of cases of spasmodic croup where I know the life of a little one was saved by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." Sold by C. H. Hance, 77 and 79 North Spring street.

Mr. C. H. Shawen, Wellsville, Kan., says: "It is with pleasure that I can speak of the good Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy has done in my family during the last thirteen years. In the most obstinate cases of summer complaint and diarrhœa among my children it acts as a charm, making it never necessary to call in a physician. I can truthfully say that it is my judgment, based on years of experience, that there is not a medicine in the market that is its equal as a family remedy, and that I will never keep house without a bottle of it in my possession." Sold by C. H. Hance, 77 and 79 North Spring street.

Optical Goods.

The Only Manufacturing Optical Establishment

IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

We kindly invite the public to inspect our establishment, which is fitted out with the most complete stock of Optical and Mathematical Instruments, including a full line of Field, Marine and OPERA-GLASSES direct from the leading manufacturers in Paris. We call special attention to our SPECTACLE DEPARTMENT, which is the most perfect one in Southern California, and stands equal to any in the State. At this institution defective eyes are diagnosed and measured (free of charge) on thorough scientific principles. Lenses ground to order if necessary, to correct each particular case. No visual defects where glasses are required too complicated for us. We guarantee our fitting to be absolutely perfect. We are also prepared to do any kind of repairing to our line at short notice.

PROVIDENCIA RANCHO!

17,000 Acres, Fruit and Alfalfa Lands,

The Finest Body of Land in Los Angeles C

—ONLY SIX MILES FROM LOS ANGELES CITY LIMITS.—

On Southern Pacific main line to San Francisco. Six passenger trains daily.

Side-tracks, depot and other improvements under progress.

AN ELEGANT HOTEL and nine residence and business buildings now under contract to be erected in the town, which has been named BURBANK, and now laid out and surveyed. Streets under contract to be graded. Water in abundance will be piped and laid in front of each and every lot. The town is located on an eminence, commanding a view of the entire San Fernando Valley on the north and west, while the city of Los Angeles is clearly perceptible to the south. The lands embrace both foothill and valley property, and for quality and fertility cannot be surpassed in Southern California, and claimed by all judges as specially adapted to the growth of ORANGES, LEMONS, LIMES, OLIVES and other fruits.

A plot of the town and price and terms of lots and acres can be obtained at the office of

T. W. T. RICHARDS, Secretary,

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Santa Ana.

A BIG BUDGET OF NEWSY ITEMS.

SANTA ANA, June 23.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The Santa Fé Railroad graders are pushing the work right along. They have completed the grading to this point and are making rapid progress toward San Juan Capistrano. As most of the heavy grading down that way was done some time ago, it is natural to infer that the work will soon be completed to the ocean, ready for the ties and rails.

Whatever the purpose of the Southern Pacific may be, there is no move here yet in the matter of grading the roadbed.

The new brick stores commenced some time ago, on Fourth street, are up and are receiving the finishing touches. The First National Bank will occupy the room on the west, next to Schwartzel's jewelry store.

The new hotel will soon be ready for use.

Already H. R. Bristol has opened one of the neatest drug stores in Southern California, in one of the storerooms of the hotel.

L. Gilmacher is in San Francisco to negotiate for iron fronts for at least three new brick stores, which he is to erect on West Fourth street. The prospect is that some three or four more buildings will be erected on the block still further west.

The foundations are being laid for three more brick stores on East Fourth street.

The Presbyterian Society have outgrown their beautiful church, and have let the contract to enlarge it to double its present size. Dr. Fackler, the pastor, is a very popular preacher and is having large congregations at all his services.

Rev. A. M. Petty, of the Baptist Church, is off for the San Juan hot springs for his health, his church having given him a six-weeks' vacation.

M. M. Crookshanks is building a fine residence on North Main street.

Col. Edwards has had his residence remodeled, and it now presents a beautiful appearance and is one of the most attractive residences on Fourth street.

The prosperity and growth of this valley seem to be steady and healthful, no spasmodic bound, but simply in obedience to the law of demand are the improvements made. These naturally cause prices to advance.

Crop prospects are good, and corn is coming forward rapidly.

The orange-packing season is over, and the packers are glad.

Campers are leaving for the coast.

NEWTON.

Banning.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE TOWN—IMPROVEMENTS.

BANNING, June 23.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The completion of Mrs. Fountain's boarding-house marks the building progress for the week. J. J. McCoy is the architect. An excellent job. Miss Myers, of Decatur, Ill., arrived yesterday, and will take charge of the house.

The Bryant House is full of guests who have come to spend the summer in our bracing atmosphere.

J. M. Forquar has bought the five acres of the San José tract on which the ranch-house stands. The lot is covered with fruit-trees in bearing. Jim is not much of a Baptist, but he is coming to Banning "because there is much water there."

The Banning Land Company have five or six teams grading streets. They expect to make about five miles of thoroughfares.

Men are to be seen on every corner picking out lots to bid on next auction day.

POCO TIEMPO.

The Courts.

In Judge Cheney's court yesterday the case of The People vs. J. C. Moore was continued to June 27th, at 10 a.m.

John Gibney was found guilty as charged and ordered to appear for sentence June 27th, at 10 a.m.

In the case of A. L. Hazeleus, the information was dismissed for lack of evidence to convict.

JUDGE GARDINER.

In the matter of the estate and guardianship of the minor children of John H. Godfrey, the accounts were approved and the resignation of the guardian was accepted.

JUDGE HUTTON.

A decree of partition was granted by Judge Hutton in the case of Hart et al. vs. Sheffield et al.

JUSTICE AUSTIN.

J. J. Boyle, for disturbing the peace, was fined $3.

JUSTICE TANEY.

George Draper, for disturbing the peace, was fined $20.

H. J. Wilson, for disturbing the peace, was fined $8.

The case of The People vs. Sresovich was continued to July 5th, at 10 a.m.

San Juan-by-the Sea—Proposals for a Hotel.

The Pacific Land Improvement Company have platted and will soon place upon the market this bewitching seaside resort. Its beauty is known to Californians as exceeding anything on this coast. A magnificent hotel-site on the bluff, 125 feet above the sea, has been set apart. This will be deeded to the company or individual who will enter into a contract to construct, within four months, a hotel to cost not less than $50,000. The most costly building will secure the prize.

Address George H. Fullerton, president Pacific Land Improvement Company, room 21, Wilson block, Los Angeles, Cal.; or W. H. Holabird, general agent, Santa Ana, Cal.

Cheap, Choice, Near-by Acre Property.

The odd blocks in the Providencia ranch, located west of and near the town of Burbank, embracing forty acres each, will be placed on the market at the office of the company, No. 12 South Spring street, on Monday morning, June 6th, at $100 per acre, which is lower, considering the quality of land and its near-by location, than any land now offered in Los Angeles county.

Glendale.

This coming burg is destined to be prominent in the front ranks of successful towns the coming fall. Railroad now building. Hotel to cost $50,000 commenced. We mean what we say. To see is to believe. Five hundred and seventy-five lots sold. Buildings going up. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars' worth of improvements under contemplation. Many fine lots at low figures. Ben E. Ward, 4 Court street.

NOVEL! INGENIOUS! PRACTICAL!

THE CELEBRATED WOOTON DESKS.

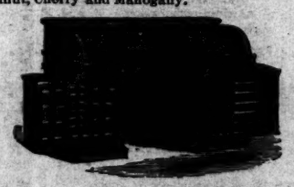
Everybody Delighted with them.

FLAT TOP—NO. 8—ROTARY DESK.

We here present cuts of two of our most popular styles of Rotary Desks. Awkward closets and side-drawers done away with. We substitute revolving cases on the ends. The principle is a great success, and purchasers everywhere express themselves delighted. Made in a great variety of patterns, in Walnut, Cherry and Mahogany.

THE CABINET SECRETARY.

The most spacious and elegant desk ever presented. 110 compartments, as shown in cut, all under one lock and key; 40 pigeon-holes in the right wing, filled with filing boxes. A universal favorite as an adornment for either office or library. Made in three sizes.



LOW ROLL TOP—NO. 14—ROTARY DESK.

We unhesitatingly pronounce this the handsomest and most attractive Low Roll-top Desk in the market. Locks automatically with one key.

VALUABLE BOOK!

OUR FAMILY  PHYSICIAN

GIVEN AWAY!

To all Subscribers of the

WEEKLY MIRROR!

The price of the WEEKLY MIRROR is $2.00 a year. This book sells for $3.00 in the market. We will furnish both for $2.00. If the book is to be sent out of this office, 15 cents must accompany order to pay postage.

THE BEST PREMIUM OFFERED

By any Paper in the United States.

THE MOST PRACTICAL! THE MOST RELIABLE!

Everybody should have a copy of our "FAMILY PHYSICIAN."

This book contains 544 pages; is eight and one-half inches long, six inches wide and two inches thick. It is printed on extra heavy paper and is handsomely bound, with embossed cover and gilt-lettered back.

IT IS DIFFERENT FROM ALL OTHER WORKS OF THE KIND EVER PUBLISHED.

FIRST—It teaches those who have it how to tell what the matter is when some one gets sick. All similar books tell what to do—if you know what the disease is. THIS BOOK TELLS YOU HOW TO RECOGNIZE THE DISEASE, and then what to do for it. No other book published does this.

SECOND—When a person is really attacked by a dangerous disease, it enables you to know the fact, and in such cases its advice is, "Send for a competent physician at once." In all ordinary cases, such as can be cured without a doctor (and most of the ailments in a family are of this kind, if only you could recognize them), it gives full directions for treatment. The point is, that it teaches you the difference between a dangerous and a trifling disease, and tells you when it is necessary and when it is not necessary to call a physician. No other book published does this.

THIRD—It gives separately, and for each disease, the methods used by each of the different "schools of medicine," and in all cases the prescriptions are made by the most eminent men in their respective mode of practice. This makes the work specially suited to the needs of every family, no matter what school of medicine they prefer—the Allopathic, Homeopathic, Hydropathic, Eclectic or Herbal. NO OTHER BOOK PUBLISHED DOES THIS.

WE WILL SHOW YOU HOW IT DOES THIS

If you will call and see us.

Please read these indorsements of distinguished physicians which were sent to the publishers of this grand work:

Having examined the advance sheets of the work entitled "Our Family Physician," I can say that I find it accurate in its descriptions of diseases and reliable in its therapeutical department.
N. F. COOKE, M.D.,
Professor of theory and practice, Hahnemann Medical College.

I hereby certify that I have examined a work entitled "Our Family Physician," and find it to be correct in its diagnosis, and, in my opinion, worthy of the confidence of the public.
H. S. HANN, M.D.

I have examined the advance sheets of "Our Family Physician." It gives me pleasure to recommend the work as correct in its mode of treatment of diseases, and it deserves wide circulation.
J. F. COOKE, M.D.,
Professor in Burnett's Medical College, Chicago.

After examining the publication "Our Family Physician," I can fully indorse the opinions expressed of its merits by the above gentlemen.
R. A. GUNN, M.D.,
Professor of the Burnett Medical College.

The book contains a valuable chapter of symptoms, which will aid wonderfully in diagnosing diseases, and the proper remedies are given for Allopathic, Homeopathic, Eclectic, Hydropathic and Herbal.

Every family should have a guide to health to assist the family doctor. not intended to take the place of the doctor in every instance, but to help you do everything possible in his absence.

—:TO OUR OLD SUBSCRIBERS:—

It is customary with newspapers to give premiums to new subscribers only; but the publishers of the MIRROR mean to reverse this old rule; they intend to do as well, at least, by their old subscribers—those who have stood by the paper in years past, and paid their money for it "right straight along." We propose to show our appreciation of these friends in a substantial manner; and as the premium to be offered is expensive, and as our express object in offering it is to increase our list of subscribers, we will require every old subscriber who may renew his subscription, in order to receive the valuable premium, to bring in AT LEAST ONE NEW SUBSCRIBER, to whom the premium will be given, as well as to the old subscriber.

BUSINESS.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
Los Angeles, Thursday, June 23.

In the local markets Poultry and Eggs are higher. The remainder of the list at the Produce Exchange is unchanged.

A dispatch from Chicago has the following review of the market for California products:

"California Dried Fruits are about steady, but with no stock of consequence on sale. Trade remains firm. Pitted Plums, evaporated, sell at 10c.; pitted Plums, sun-dried, at 7@8c. Apricots, evaporated, future delivery, at 10@18c.; Apricots, sun-dried, none here. Prunes at 8@11c. Raisins, London layers, 30c. per pound, $1.50@1.75 per box; loose Muscatel, $1.25@1.35; California layers, $1.33@1.35. Green California Fruits were selling fairly, prices ranging as follows: Apricots, 80-pound boxes, $1.50@1.75; Apricots, half crates, $1.75@2.00. Peaches, 30-pound boxes, $1.75@2.00. Cherries, 10-pound boxes, $2.00@2.25. Plums (cherry), 30-pound, $1.00@1.25; Plums (peach), 30-pound, $2.00@2.25; Plums (royal native), 1½ crates, $3.00@3.75. Stock in soft order sell at less prices. California Potatoes are dull and lower at $1.75@2.00 per 100 pounds.

Stocks and Bonds.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Money on call, easy at 0@1½; last loan, ½; closed at 12 bid.

Prime mercantile paper, 5@6.

Sterling exchange, dull and steady at 4.85¾ for 60 days; 4.84¾ for demand.

Government bonds dull and weak.

The transactions on the Stock Exchange today were the largest for many weeks, but this increase in business was entirely at the expense of quotations. The uneasy feeling over western failures was aggravated this morning by rumors to the effect that the American Exchange Bank, of Chicago, was in trouble, and although the story met with prompt denial, some selling was indulged in.

A BAD FIRE.

YEE LEE'S WASHEE HOUSE TEE-TOTALLY CONSUMED.

Poor Evidences of Ability to Put Out a Conflagration—A Brave Man's Good Work—Treasure Recovered from the Ashes.

At twenty minutes before 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the big bell at the head of First street sounded loud and clear over surrounding space. Those who stopped to listen counted one, two, three; one, two, repeated several times. This indicated an alarm of fire from box No. 32 of the fire alarm system, which is located at the engine-house on Main, near First street. Looking a little to the southeast of that point smoke was seen rolling skyward, and in less than two minutes hundreds of people were running in that direction, and the engines and hose carts came through the streets with the horses on the run. The crowd found a small building in flames near the corner of May and Los Angeles streets, and near by a lot of frightened Chinamen were huddled together. The burning building proved to be a Chinese laundry, owned by Yee Lee, upon a lot leased from John C. Bell. The structure was a flimsy, tinder-box affair, and before an engine reached the spot it was too far gone to save anything but ashes, and attention was directed to saving the building of the California Vinegar and Pickle Works, close alongside. A plucky man named Jacob Wolf had climbed out on the roof of this building and was doing good execution with a garden hoe, in spite of the intense heat of the flames which almost swept over him, as the wind was blowing in his direction. In spite of his efforts, however, the house caught fire, but engine No. 2 got a stream on in time to extinguish it before much, if any, damage was done. But Wolf's brave act probably prevented the devouring element from taking full possession before the fire department arrived. Meantime the laundry was burning fiercely and was soon a heap of ashes. A large crowd filled the streets, and when the fire was well under headway the cracking of pistols inside caused some to fall back in a lively manner. There was quite a lively fusillade for a few minutes from this cause. The building and all its contents was a total loss. At this time in the week there was a good deal of laundry work in the house, and Yee Lee said that the men and himself had some $600 or $700 in money, which they had no time to save, and he thought their total loss, including his own, would foot up some $1800. He said that he did not know how the fire originated, but from his description of the place where it started, it probably came from a defective flue. It was some time after the fire started before an alarm was turned in. A young man named Wooley said that he saw the Chinamen come crowding out, and saw flames issue from the roof at about the same instant, and he ran into two or three houses near the corner of Los Angeles and Mayo streets, where there is a box, but could find no key, and the alarm was finally turned in from Main-street engine-house, near First. The engine from Sixth street was the first to reach the fire, but No. 2 got the first stream on the fire. The horses of this engine were in the blacksmith shop when the alarm struck. There was pressure in the main when the hose was attached, and it was twenty-two minutes after the alarm struck before the engine threw water on the fire. Considerable complaint was made by a good many bystanders that the firemen purposely turned the hose on the crowd two or three times, giving some, including ladies and children, a severe, shower and then laughing at the trick. After the fire a Chinaman went among the ruins and dug out a double-handful of $20 gold pieces, in good condition though badly blackened. The pickle building was insured, but not the laundry.

When the Chinamen discovered their coin in the southwest corner of the ruins, the gang of circumambient hoodlums, about 300 in number, made a rush for the spot. Capt. Tyler and several officers had a hard time to keep them back.

Base-Ball.

The San Luis Obispo Club is expected to arrive today. They will play the first game of the series on the Sixth-street grounds tomorrow. The game will be called promptly at 3 p.m., thus giving all the employés of the wholesale houses a chance to attend the Saturday games, and bring their ladies. Saturday being ladies' day, the fair sex is expected to crowd the grand stand. The San Luis boys have secured the services of the Ventura battery, Haydock and Elwell, to help them out in the series. They will alternate with Borick and O'Neil, their crack battery. It is said that Borick greatly resembles Farrell, late of the Santa Monica Club, in his delivery, watches bases very closely, and is one of the leading pitchers in the North.

New California Patents.

Hazard & Townsend, solicitors of patents, furnish the following list of patents issued to residents of California, Tuesday, June 14th:

Windmill, Frederick Altman, San José.
Cable-grip, Warren Dunham, Igo.
Construction of navigable vessels, Walter Forward, Shingletown.
Portable steam boiler, J. R. Mitchell and F. X. Fischer, Oakland.
Combined lock and latch, Elijah Nyswonger, Hanford.
Cask, and preventing the same from leaking, Edward Schakat, Los Angeles.
Timber roll, R. M. Webb, San Francisco.

Would-Bes and Won't-Bes.

The examination of would-be teachers in the public schools goes on merrily at the Normal School building. Of the sixty applicants who presented themselves Tuesday, one was under age, and three weakened without starting in. So only fifty-six tried the first examination. The hard questions have been making wide gaps in the ranks, and yesterday there were but thirty-two toilers left. Probably about fifteen will get through safely. This will be better than at a recent examination here, wherein thirty-seven persons applied for teachers' certificates, and only one of the thirty-seven passed the examinations successfully.

A New Wharf.

There is a new stir in and around Wilmington and San Pedro, and those long-quiet towns are beginning to feel and act pretty wide awake. Capt. Banning has already begun driving piles for a wharf a mile long, running from Mormon Island clear to Wilmington. It is understood that the Southern Pacific will in a few days put on an extra passenger train, leaving this city for San Pedro at 7 a.m., and leaving San Pedro for this city at 6 p.m.

Brooks Disgusted.

J. Marion Brooks, United States District Attorney, returned from Ventura yesterday. He is thoroughly disgusted with the action of the revenue officers, who allowed the smuggling sea captain to escape, after he and his schooner, the Lou, had been captured. Mr. Brooks is confident that the dark workings of the San Diego smugglers would have been exposed, had the officers done their duty by holding fast to the bold captain of the Lou.

A Good Example.

The Los Angeles Band of Hope, under the efficient direction of Mrs. J. H Blanchard, have kindly volunteered two entertainments, on Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, July 1st and 2d, for the benefit of the building fund of the Orphans' Home. The example of these young workers is worthy of imitation.

An Elaborate Party.

Probably the most elaborate party of the season was given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Ellis. A large number of society people were present, and an unusually pleasant affair it was voted by all.

A Misprint.

An advertisement of the Los Angeles Land Bureau, published yesterday, was inadvertently made to read Southern California Land Company. It was a mistake of the printer.

SNEAK-THIEVING.

A Dear Steal—One Thief Nabbed by Officer Loomis.

Yesterday afternoon two trampish-looking individuals entered the liquor store of G. L. Mosnager & Co., on Los Angeles street, and called for wine. The clerk descended some steps to serve his customers, and, on returning, observed one of the strangers handing bottles to the other. He gave the alarm, and the fellow who had the bottles ran out and off up street. But some other men in the store coming to the rescue, the first man was secured, and Officer Loomis sent for, at the depot. He came promptly, and placed the party under arrest. He started for the station with his prisoner, and, as he went out of the door, noticed a man a little distance up, on the other side of the street, watching his movements rather curiously. An idea entered the officer's head, but saying nothing, he went along the street with the arrested party, and as he passed the watching man, laid a heavy hand on his shoulder, with the words, "I arrest you." The scared chap protested, but on searching him, three bottles of liquor were found concealed inside his shirt, and his pal finally said the second man was his partner in the scrape. Both men were conducted to the station, where they gave the names of James McClusky and Archibald Rust, and were locked up on a charge of petit larceny.

LOOK OUT FOR THE ENGINE.

Narrow Escape of a Party of Pleasure-Seekers.

On Tuesday morning a party of Los Angeles people, with "youth at the helm, and pleasure at the prow," nautically speaking, started out to Santa Monica, and on the way got an unexpected peep through the pearly gates. The happy party dashed on, admiring the changing tints of the mountains and sky and making the air vocal with jest and laughter.

In the midst of a grand chorus, after some especially taking witticism, just as they were nearing Ballona Station, an old gentleman ran toward them, frantically waving them back, and in the lull the terror-stricken party saw that the train was bearing down on them just in time to dash upon them at the crossing. The driver, with a firm hand, turned the horses' heads, but the scorching breath of the engine cut off the balmy seabreeze before the curve was made.

Another instant would have seen a mangled mass of humanity on the grassy slope, for in their glee the party had heard no whistles, and had even forgotten that the railroad was near. They all realized for a time what it is to say, "This is the last of earth," and the old world seemed more lovely than ever after the respite given them for a longer stay among the living.

BRADSTREET TALKS.

And Tells Why He Wouldn't Fight Cleary.

Ed W. Bradstreet, the youthful pug who failed to fight at the race track Sunday morning, sent a note to THE TIMES requesting an interview with a reporter. He was found at the City Prison, where he is serving a term of five days for swimming in the Temple-street reservoir. He stated that he was never in the ring as a professional, but that he has stood up before Dempsey and several other pugs in a friendly way. When Tom Cleary's backers came to him they talked him into fighting Cleary to a finish. He consented to fight when they told him that it would be with kid gloves, for the reason that he knew his blows would tell against Cleary in that way, whereas in a sparring contest he could do nothing. The fight was to be to a finish for a purse of $300. He did not know until he got into the ring that there were only seventeen men present, and when he learned that only ten of them had put up $5 apiece he flatly refused to fight, as they wanted him to fight with hard gloves instead of kid gloves, according to agreement.

HIS OWN LOT.

A Real-Estate Purchaser's Rather Funny Blunder.

Real-estate dealers sometimes wish to sell a lot. Apropos of the man who went to buy property which he had sold a few days before, an old gentleman living not far from the Times Building was in a real-estate dealer's office a few days since, when he was asked to buy a lot in a certain block. The r.-e. d. said that he had that lot for sale, and set his price. The elderly gentleman agreed to take it, and was to call next day, see a plat of the block, view the lot and close the bargain. Next day he was promptly on hand, and the dealer showed him the map, when behold! it was the old gentleman's own lot at that very moment, he having bought it several months before, but, not knowing its exact location in the block by number. The r.-e. d. saw the joke, threw off all commissions and stood treat.

Marriage Licenses.

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to W. A. Young and Fannie Young, b. Bennett and S. M. Harris, B. W. Marshall and Mrs. E. K. May, and P. S. Polley and Maggie Shields.

MRS. SCHMIDT.

HER HUSBAND'S PECULIAR ACTIONS EXPLAINED.

He Offers $500 to Have Her Come Back to Live With Him—She Is Suing for Divorce for Alleged Abuse.

Mrs. Eva Schmidt, the young "runaway wife" noted in THE TIMES yesterday, still holds the fort against her hubby. Yesterday morning before sun-up Mr. Schmidt rapped excitedly at the door of Justice Taney. The fulvous J. P. had just turned over for his morning snore and was loth to rise, but from the rattle that was kept up at his front door he came to the conclusion that something out of the ordinary run of human events was going on, so he arose and admitted the excited Teutonic gentleman. Schmidt told his story with tears running down his cheeks. The Justice mingled several tears of sympathy with Schmidt's and the two put their heads together over numerous law books. His Honor read page after page of musty law, and, by the time he reached a point where he was able to lay the law down to the excited Schmidt, Old Sol peeped in on a picture that would make any artist famous could he have sketched the two at the very moment when His Honor told the aged husband that he might call at his office at 9 o'clock and he would probably give him a warrant for the arrest of his wife and her lover. The Court dressed itself, and Schmidt lit out for his faithful friends who were guarding the house. Schmidt read THE TIMES yesterday morning bright and early, and suddenly came to the conclusion that he had put his foot into some kind of a trap that pinched like "dunder and blitzen," for he did not show up at Taney's courtroom at 9 o'clock nor at any other hour during the day. In fact, he kept himself out of sight all day, and the chances are that he will not ask the police force to make a raid on another lodging-house. He did go and make application to the District Attorney for a warrant to make his wife come back to him, but the official informed him that there was no law to fit his case.

THE REAL CASE.

Investigation yesterday showed that the old man's story must be taken with about half a ton of salt. Ten days ago Mrs. Eva Schmidt's attorneys, the well-known law firm of Barclay, Wilson, Reddick & Carpenter, brought suit for her for a divorce from her husband. The complaint alleges that Schmidt has made her life miserable by his abuse; that he has pulled a pistol on her and threatened to shoot her, and has frequently and falsely accused her of infidelity—just as he is doing now. The night before the suit was brought she left him, but she says he has known all the time just where she has been. She was urged by her friends into marrying Schmidt five years ago, when she was but 15 years of age. They have no children. Yesterday afternoon Schmidt went to his wife's attorneys and offered them $500 if they would induce her to come back and live with him. He admitted to them that her leaving him was all his own fault.

Medical.

CATARRH!
THROAT DISEASES, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA,
CONSUMPTION,
Together with diseases of the
EYE, EAR AND HEART,
Successfully treated by
M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D.,
M. C. P. S. O.,
No. 275 North Main Street,
A few doors south of the new postoffice, Los Angeles, Cal.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

This has been demonstrated in thousands of cases treated by
DR. WILLIAMS,
With his new system of Medicated Inhalations combined with proper constitutional remedies for the liver, stomach, blood, etc.

Probably no system of practice ever adopted has been so universally successful as that introduced by Dr. Williams for the cure of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

CATARRH.

Catarrh is often regarded by the patient as a cold in the head, and he often expresses his astonishment at his remarkable tendency to contract a fresh cold; indeed, he declares that he is scarcely free from one cold before he takes another, and oet he is always exceedingly careful; is is also a matter of surprise to him that the cold always seems to settle in the head and throat.

At times many of the symptoms of Catarrh may seem to abate, and the patient is led to hope that the disease is about to wear off; but another class of symptoms soon appears, and he learns to his horror that instead of recovery from the disease, it is somewhat changed in its character and has extended to the throat. A sense of weariness is sometimes felt in reading, speaking or singing, hoarseness at times occurs, a sensation of dryness is felt in the throat, or it appears that some foreign substance, as, for instance, a hair, obstructed the throat; there becomes a sense of languor and fatigue, the breath lessens upon a little exertion, a short, hacking cough, a peculiar sound in clearing the throat, a feeling as though there was not room enough in the chest to breathe; these and other symptoms occur after the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a time when consumption is about to begin its dreadful work. Up to this time the progress of the disease may have been slow, and the patient may, in expressing his confident hope that it will "wear off," declare that he has had the catarrh for years, and has not seemed to become much worse, and trusts that he will "by-and-by" recover. But this delusion is the grand error which has peopled our cemeteries with consumptive forms, as all forms of catarrh end finally in consumption.

Inhalations are applicable in all diseases of the respiratory organs, but must be prepared for each individual case as they severally require.

By the employment of proper inhalation in the form of medicated vapor (not steam or spray) we are able to produce immediate and direct action upon the diseased surface in the pharnyx and nasal passages, for air will find its way into the most remote and intricate cavities, where it is utterly impossible to make fluid applications. By these means every case can be cured.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success.

The very best references from those already cured.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for consultation and examination, but if impossible to do so can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions. Address,

WHO IS THE LUCKY MAN?

THIS MEANS YOU.

Here is a Little Speculation that will discount anything in the Market

Eighty-five acres of choice land, suitable for the successful growing of strawberries of the finest kind, as well as any small fruit or vegetables, in the town of Compton, less than one-half mile from the railroad depot, has been subdivided into sixteen tracts, of which fifteen contain five acres each and one ten acres; 65 acres of it in alfalfa. One of the five-acre tracts has a $2500 house, $500 barn, and the finest artesian well in the land, and is easily worth $4500.

Any one of the five-acre tracts can be so planted as to support any man and his family, and do it well.

These sixteen tracts will be distributed among the sixteen lucky purchasers of the sixteen tickets, now for sale.

Every purchaser gets more than the worth of his money, and, besides, there are

TWO GRAND PRIZES!

FIRST PRIZE—The tract with the house, barn and well, worth $4500.

SECOND PRIZE—The ten-acre lot, worth $2000.

Price of each chance, only $1000.

TERMS—$100 down. $400 on day of drawing, and $500 on March 1, 1888.

GLENDALE

The Gem of All Gems.

The lots in this beautiful tract will be on sale at the office of

BEN. E. WARD : : : : : SOLE AGENT

For the City of Los Angeles.

In offering this property we offer you good, honest investment, NEAR HOME, at 30 miles from Los Angeles prices. All we ask of you is to visit this charming suburb of Los Angeles, as we are confident you will see in GLENDALE the first healthy rival PASADENA has ever encountered.

ONLY 6½ MILES FROM THE COURTHOUSE. $300 for inside lots and $350 and $400 for corners. THESE LOTS, remember, are not COBBLEIZED. We don't guarantee stones enough on every lot to build a ten-foot wall around the lot, but give you fine soil, lots of pure water, a charming climate, with very little "climb it" to get there.

TERMS—One-third cash, one-third in six and twelve or nine and eighteen months.

The above prices will only hold until further notice.

WE GUARANTEE A RAILROAD to the heart of this, the coming "OAKLAND" of Los Angeles county. Compare the prices and distance of this property and decide for yourself.
